Sister of girl killed in Winthrop coasting accident. She warned other coasters of the danger after the fatality.

Two fatal coasting accidents in which the victims were a Winthrop girl of seventeen and a Roxbury boy of eleven, have caused police heads throughout Greater Boston to order unusual vigilance in the supervision and protection of coasters.

While Boston proper has adequate regulations covering streets set aside for coasting, the safety of coasters in the surrounding cities and towns is almost entirely in the hands of the individual police officers.

At Winthrop, where Miss Phyllis Warren of No. 5 Faun Bar avenue lost her life when her sled crashed into the rear of the automobile of Richard W. Green, aged thirty, of No. 79 Highland avenue, Winthrop

DEMANDS CENSOR FOR TEXTBOOKS

Public Utilities Commissioner O'Brien Charges a Plot to Foster Alien Propaganda

Charging that the "most hellish proaganda is going on in this country to destroy American ideals and traditions, chiefly in the public schools," William H. O'Brien, member of the Department of Public Utilities today introduced in the Legislature a bill providing for State supervision of all text-books.

Any municipality found guilty of having books in its school which the State Board of Education rules are not 100 per cent. American, would forfeit all State aid for maintenance of its school system.

The bill reads:

TWELVE ARE KILLED IN MEXICAN BATTLE

Mexico City, Jan. 19.—A pitched battle in which twelve persons were killed and numerous others were wounded took place between more than 200 armed agrarians and a small federal force under Colonel Artemio Basurto, near the town of Huichapan, State of Hidalgo.

British Amateur Has Radio Chat With South America

London, Jan. 19 (I.N.S.)—The first amateur two-way radio communication between Europe and South America was established today. An English amateur radio operator conversed with a member of the Rice exploration party at Boa Vista 800 miles inland. The amateur used an 800-watt set.

60 WEAVERS QUIT IN NEW BEDFORD

New Bedford, Jan. 19.—Sixty members of the Weavers' and Loom Fixers' Union, employed by the Goodyear Tire Company in the old Passaic mills here went on strike today.

This was the first drastic action taken by mill operatives in the fight against the 10 per cent. wage cut that went into effect in the seventeen mills of this city today.

President Abram Binns of the local Textile Council was called to the mill and an impromptu meeting was held at the gates. As a result Binns promised to hold a strike meeting later today.

Mill workers, when the cut was announced, voted to confine their action to a protest, pending decision by the operatives in Fall River.

PAWTUCKET WORKERS TO TALK WITH MANAGEMENT

Pawtucket, Jan. 19.—Workers at the Greenhalgh Cotton Mills who protested last week against a ten per cent. wage reduction announced to become effective today, were at their places today. A committee was named to confer with the mill management, which announced that wage schedules would be governed largely by those prevailing in the New Bedford cotton industry. The plant employs 400 persons.

TOM LAWSON HAS COMFORTABLE NIGHT

Thomas W. Lawson had a "very comfortable night, and his condition is satisfactory," according to a report from the Phillips House of the Massachusetts General Hospital today. LAWRENCE FIRE CHIEF INJURED

Many Driven to Street in $20,000 Blaze in the Drug Company Plant

Lawrence, Jan. 19.—Deputy Chief Michael McPhee was painfully injured and more than two-score persons were driven to the street when the Lawrence Drug & Chemical Company's establishment at Lawrence and Oak streets was swept by fire of unknown origin today.

The damage is estimated at $20,000.

Chief McPhee was injured when he stumbled as he attempted to enter a tailor shop on the first floor, where the fire was raging.

He fell almost unconscious, and a big gash on the right side of his head was opened when he came in contact with the door. He was sent to Lawrence General Hospital.

The fire, starting in the tailor shop, raced through upper floors and stores adjoining on the street floor. Occupants of the apartments on the upper floors escaped before the flames reached their tenements.

After a stiff battle firemen confined the flames to one building, although for a time it was feared that others might be destroyed.

Stores on the ground floor that suffered damage are: Lawrence Drug & Chemical Company, Lawrence Street Clothes Shop, Sam's Quick Lunch, Lawrence Street poolroom, Castaigno's cobbler shop.

SUSPECT HELD IN DAM BLAST THAT KILLED 19

Bristol, Va., Jan. 19.—Roy Patrick, twenty-seven, is held in Smythe County jail at Marion on a charge of having dynamited the dam at Saltville on Christmas Eve, causing the death of nineteen persons and resulting in tremendous property damage.

He reiterated his innocence of the charge today and said he would prove an alibi.

The authorities claim they have evidence that Patrick planted several sticks of dynamite under the dam to dislodge the mountain of lime muck that swept down the Holstein River Valley nearby, spreading death and destruction. They charge Patrick had made threats against the Mathieson Alkali Works, owners of the dam.

Rum, Autos Kill 12 Over Week End in Chicago

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Twelve deaths was the toll of moonshine liquor and motorcar accidents in Chicago over Sunday. Two men suspected of criminal activities were shot to death.

Twelve persons were sent to hospitals, two in a serious condition, after drinking poison liquor. A woman was arrested and charged with having sold poison liquor to several youths, causing the death of one.

MUSSOLINI IS DEFIANT TO HIS FOES

By KARL H. VON WEIGAND.
(Copyright, 1925, by Universal Service.)

Rome, Jan. 19.—"Everything is quiet." With these three words Benito Mussolini, Premier of Italy, summarized to me what he declared to be the situation in Italy.

"There are no strikes. There are no demonstrations," he said. "Italy is working. The world is stupid if it believes every report about Italy. I cannot think it does."

Every sentence was forceful as it was expressed, and punctuated with characteristic gestures.

"How long have you been in Italy? Have you seen any riots? Any strikes? Any demonstrations? No? Well, there have not been any.

"The Italian people are working. Is it known that the shipping, banking and trading at Genoa is now exceeding that of Marseilles?"

Staccato, machine-gun like came his words.

"Never!" Mussolini's eyes blazed. His square jaws came together with the click of a steel trap. His lips thinned over his teeth. His face took on the aspect of a fighting bulldog with a death grip.

"Never," he snapped again when I remarked that there are rumors abroad that in view of the opposition

40 POLICE BATTER DOORS DOWN

Seven Persons Arrested as Tables Are Overturned and Chairs Broken

"Follow the Swallow Back Home."

Led by a wailing saxaphone, a moaning violin and a wicked set of trap drums, 200 men and women, white and negro, joined boisterously in the singing of the "Swallow" song at the Phalanx Orchestra Club, at No. 2150 Washington street, Roxbury, early today.

The clubroom air was heavy with the odor of the "swallow"—it had a strange resemblance to synthetic gin.

FORTY POLICE IN RAID.

The wild hilarity was suddenly punctuated by the sound of doors crashing before the weight of husky shoulders, and a moment later forty policemen were in the club rooms.

With the policemen were three agents of the Watch and Ward Society, who have kept the club under constant surveillance for the past three weeks.

Where a moment before there had been nothing but rollicking song and loud laughter, there was now a scene of wild confusion. Tables were overturned, chairs were broken, while men and women did their best to get rid of the remaining "swallow" in their possession by dumping the contents of their flasks on the floor.

The police guarded the exits from the club until a record of the

LONDON FEARS U. S. WILL WRECK THE PARIS PACT

London, Jan. 19 (I.N.S.)—The British Foreign Office today viewed the opposition United States Senator Hiram Johnson voiced to the Paris agreement as presaging a serious situation. British officials were fearful lest the whole agreement be wrecked by American opposition.

The British view is that the United States is committed to nothing in a political sense by signing the financial agreement and can withdraw it at any time the country pleases.

ELOPERS WED IN HUB; THEN WIRE HOME

Worcester, Jan. 19.—Telegrams received here today revealed the elopement of Ida Lederman and Archie Gordon, a local couple, who were married in Boston, Saturday night, one month ahead of the date scheduled.

The newlyweds started on a honeymoon trip to New York and Philadelphia, notifying their parents of their action by wire.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Lederman, of No. 44 Granite street, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gordon, of No. 49 Coral street.

CARBON MONOXIDE KILLS WORCESTER MAN

Worcester, Jan. 19.—Carbon monoxide claimed another victim when Joseph Melocz, forty years old, of No. 167 Washington street, died in his automobile in a garage on Perry avenue. Melocz drove his machine into the garage and closed the door behind him. He is believed to have worked on the motor for some time before the fumes overcame him. The gasoline tank was empty when his body was found.

Paris Cats Slain; Fur Will Trim New Gowns

By C. F. BERTELLI.

Paris, Jan. 19.—The mystery of where all the cats of Paris have gone was explained when it was revealed that Spring and Summer gowns will be trimmed with quantities of cat fur, generally of pale gray or pure white.

A thousand cats have been sacrificed on the altar of fashion, it is said.

The first straw hats of the season for women are here, in the shape of English "plaits," trimmed with corded ribbon and fluted at the side.

6 U. S. SHIPS RUSHING TO SHANGHAI

Manila, Jan. 19 (A. P.).—Six United States destroyers left here today for Shanghai, where factional leaders and military governors were contesting for possession of that city. With the arrival of the ships, which cleared today, the American navy will have twelve destroyers off Shanghai.

Shanghai Fears New Outbreak of Warfare

Shanghai, January 19 (A. P.).—The telegraph wires have been cut and the Chinese telegraph companies are not accepting messages.

Twelve thousand of Chang-Yuen-Ming's troops, who had been interned in the foreign settlement here after Chang's defeat at the hands of Chi Hsieh-Yuan, have embarked for the Tsing Tao district, where they will probably be disbanded.

It is feared that Chi Hsieh-Yuan, who is a supporter of the ousted Peking Government, will shortly be defeated by the "Pacification Commission," Lu Tung-Hsiang, leaving the foreign settlement again endangered by routed troops.

The bill provides that on complaint of any five citizens of the State the State Board of Education shall be empowered to sit in hearing on text-book charges and if the charges are sustained the municipality found guilty must withdraw the books or forfeit all State aid in its educational institutions.

The bill is a copy of a Wisconsin law.

SEEK GERMAN U-BOAT AS COAST RUM SHIP

Asbury Park, N. J., Jan. 19.—A report among New York Federal authorities that a submarine manned by a German crew had been smuggling liquor ashore off Asbury Park was declared today by Superintendent Rasmussen of the fifth coast guard district here to have been in circulation for a month. His men, he said, had searched for the craft without result.

He said there are only seven boats anchored off the Jersey coast and that these are continually shifting their position. He cited this as evidence that no submarine is anchored in this vicinity.

GIRL 17, AND BOY 19, BELIEVED ELOPERS

A short but fast moving romance is believed to have culminated in the elopement of Miss Hilda Forsythe, seventeen-year-old Burdett College student and Angus Worcester, nineteen-year-old Malden shop worker.

The couple met at a dance on Christmas Eve. According to their friends it was a case of love at first sight.

The parents of the young student paid little attention to the affair until she disappeared from home on January 6. The following day they learned that young Worcester had packed his clothing and left his parent's home at No. 41 Edmund street, Malden.

Nothing has since been heard of the couple and their friends are convinced that they were secretly wed and are now on their honeymoon.

Mrs. Adelia Forsythe, mother of the young student, is ill at her home at No. 33 Hamilton street, Medford Hillside, as a result of her daughter's disappearance.

POLICE HEADS ACT TO GUARD COASTERS

Highlands, the police have taken steps to stop coasting on the dangerous Faun Bar Hill.

The hill drops steeply for 200 feet, the roadway making a sharp turn at the foot into the blind end of the Winthrop Shore boulevard.

It is impossible for coasters and autoists making the circle at the end of the boulevard, to see one another until a few feet apart. Green saw the sled bearing Miss Warren when it was almost on his machine. The girls steered sharply to one side but her sled hit a rear wheel of the car and her head was crushed.

Green went to the Winthrop police station and was arrested on the technical charge of manslaughter.

After the mishap Mrs. Adrienne Burkan, sister of the dead girl, warned other coasters of the danger in that vicinity.

Arthur Webber of No. 1 Church place, Roxbury, was coasting in Washington Park, Roxbury, when he lost control of the sled which crashed into a concrete bench. The boy's skull was fractured and he died several hours later, at the City Hospital.

ARRESTS HERE INCREASE 7,185 DURING THE YEAR

Despite the crime epidemic, the Boston police made fewer arrests for larceny in 1924 than they did in 1923, according to figures issued today. Larceny figures for 1924 were 2,454, as compared with 2,519 for the previous year. The total number of arrests, however, was greater, there being 83,917 in 1924 to 76,722 in 1923.

Arrests for drunkenness in 1924 were 39,536, as against 38,938 in 1923; murder, 17 in 1924, to 23 in 1923, and manslaughter, 94 last year, to 88 the year before. Liquor law violations increased, the arrests numbering 3,454 in 1924, as compared to 3,326 in 1923.

BRITISH NAVY TO SINK BATTLESHIP MONARCH

Plymouth, Eng., Jan. 19.—Doomed to destruction by February 1 under the Washington agreement, the battleship Monarch was towed from her berth this morning under Plymouth breakwater and taken to sea in a sort of funeral procession to a point off the Scilly Islands, where she will be battered by the guns of the British Atlantic fleet. Her sinking will be the occasion of experimental tests by the Admiralty.

MUSSOLINI TO REMAIN AND SAVE ITALY

in his program, he is contemplating resigning.

I suggested that Senators seldom resign. They either die at their posts or accomplish the task set them. Mussolini nodded his head rapidly, as he said:

"Under no circumstances do I quit until my work is done so—" and he made a significant pass across his throat, evidently signifying that he will remain until his throat is cut.

Mussolini is one of the most remarkable characters I have met. As a type he stands alone in Europe today. My talk with him was dramatic. With dagger, bomb and bullet supposedly in wait for him, there was very little visible sign of police protective measures around the Dictator-Premier. There was not a policeman or a soldier on the two broad flights of stairs. There was not a uniformed lackey in the waiting rooms.

STANDS DURING INTERVIEW.

A feeble old man ushers me into the ante-room. I count twenty-six men ahead of me. All stand and walk about. All talk and gesticulate. Mussolini disposes of them in thirty-two minutes.

In the corner of a huge room otherwise bare except for magnificent paintings is a large, broad table. Mussolini stands on the other side of it. I remain on his side. He remains standing during our talk. So do I.

As he answers my questions he continues working, looking over documents, and signing them.

The first thought is that his face almost shocks you with its tremendous forcefulness as he expresses his ideas and then you are fascinated watching the marvelous mobility of expression, changing dramatically with his thoughts.

TRIAL TO BE OPEN.

I ask him whether the trial of the men charged with complicity in the murder of Deputy Matteotti will be public or behind closed doors as is reported both abroad and in Italy.

At the question Mussolini throws his arms wide apart, as he exclaims:

"Wide open to the world."

And he quickly adds:

"It is to my interest that the trial be public and have the widest publicity."

To reports that he would manage to postpone the trial until after the new elections, the Dictator says:

"The new elections will not be held until after the trial. The trial comes before the elections."

Mussolini said that the attempts to stir up trouble in Italy are due in no small part to efforts from abroad on the part of Italian emigrants who hate him, and the other part of the agitation comes from interests who do not want to see a united, strong Italy.

PARTY DIFFERENCES.

He professed that he could not understand why political party differences in Italy should arouse undue interest abroad when similar aspects prevail in other countries.

"Look at Germany," he said "where party differences have made it impossible for weeks to get a government together. In Russia, Trotzky is reported to be a prisoner in the Kremlin. In Turkey you have the struggle between Kemal Pasha and the Progressives. In France there are party differences. See what is going on in Spain."

I asked him the reason for his drive against the Free Masons.

"The law is not only against Free Masons but against all secret societies that are elements of danger to the peace and tranquility of the State,' answered Mussolini. "There is nothing so extraordinary in that. Did not the government of Germany issue a similar decree against secret political organizations? Did anyone question the wisdom of that action in the interest of the State.

"In Germany, England and America the Free Masons are a charitable, philanthropic, fraternity organization. In Italy, the Free Masons are a secret political organization. Moreover and what is worse, they are a dependency of the Grand Orient in Paris.

"I ask you would America stand for the Free Masons as a secret political organization which received orders from a secret central body in a foreign country? I want to see the Italian Free Masons what the English and American Free Masons are—a non-political fraternal organization for mutual aid."

I asked him if he is convinced that he will remain master of the situation in Italy in spite of the opposition. Mussolini dropped the pencil with which he was signing a document on the table. He straightened up, squared his shoulders, and said:

"I am determined and convinced."

FOR STABLE GOVERNMENT.

In conclusion I asked him if it were true that he is studying the American Constitution with a view of seeing whether modifications of it might be applicable to a more stabilized form of government in Italy in the hitherto parliamentary system.

Mussolini replied that his one desire was to leave as a heritage for his country some system of government that would make for stability at least for a period of years in order to avoid the too frequent political party upheavals which distract the public mind from work and retard business and economic development.

Then as I was leaving his presence, I seemed unable to quickly find and put together the words "I hope to see you again," and as I hesitated, Mussolini leaned across the wide table. As we shook hands he said in German:

"Auf Wiedersehen."

60,000 MINERS HURL STRIKE THREAT DEFI

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Jan. 19.—Sixty thousand mine workers in District No. 1, United Mine Workers of America, threaten to call a general strike in the district next Wednesday in defiance of John L. Lewis, international president, and Rinaldo Cappelini, president of the district. If the strike comes, it will be in violation of the written contract betwen miners and operators.

President Cappelini today issued a statement warning the men that if they walk out the charters of all local unions will be revoked and the strikers will be outlawed from the ranks of the United Mine Workers.

150 WOMEN IN PANIC DURING RAID ON CLUB

"guests" was obtained. Then the merrymakers were told to get home without waiting for the swallows to put in their appearance to show them the way.

SEVEN ARRESTED.

The police arrested Lincoln G. Pope, alleged owner of the club; John Davis, said to be manager of the place; John Queeney; Robert Sawyer, David Bennett and Charles F. Sheridan, charged with illegal sale of liquor, and Rose Burns, charged with being an idle and disorderly person.

The raiding party made a thorough search of the clubrooms, and, according to the police, uncovered the "Swallow" nest in the kitchen, where they claim to have found twenty-seven pints of synthetic gin and five gallons of so-called whiskey.

A pocket flask, from which all the swallows had flown, was picked up on the floor of the main room of the club.

The Phalanx Club, also known as the "Black and White Club," has been a thorn in the side of the police for many months. It has been raided several times before, but the club officers were always able to "win their cases in court.

BANNED TO POLICE.

Conditions at the club became so bad that police officials ordered all members of the force to keep away from the place when off duty. A number of policemen were up on charges for disobeying this order.

While the club is owned by negroes, it is frequented by whites and negroes alike.

The Watch and Ward Society, foiled in several attempts to close the club, finally sent skilled agents to keep a close check on the place. After days of watching and checking up the agents to prevent any premature "leaks," went personally to the Roxbury court and obtained a warrant for the raid directly from the judge.

Captain Richard J. Fitzgerald and Sergeants Walsh and Connolly of the Dudley street station headed the raiding party of thirty-five policemen and three Watch and Ward agents.

The crowds of men and women had been gathering in the club quarters since long before midnight, while the festivities had just reached their height when the raiders crashed their way into the place at 2 a. m.

The crowd was about equally divided between men and women.

By DOROTHY ELLINGSON
-Year-Old Confessed Slayer of Her Mother

1925, by the San Francisco Examiner and Universal Service. (All Rights Reserved.)

San Francisco, Jan. 19. — ow did I first begin to lead jazz life and how did I get to it?

That's simple enough, too; simple be easy, I guess.

I suppose thousands of girls have exactly the same way before maybe thousands will go the way again. If what I have to will keep any foolish girl from ing in my footsteps, I'm glad to say it.

As I look over the last two years while I'm sitting in my cell— can't see why I was so crazy the jazz life.

And I was crazy about it, there's use pretending that I wasn't. the excitement and the thrill the new people and the new and the new restaurants— and the old ones, too, no quiet for mine. I wanted life and and lights and music and body laughing, and somebody ing and once in a while some telling a good sob story or ing good sob songs.

E TEARS.

It's pleasant to cry a little, too, in a while in the right com and you'll find most of the babies" like to cry over people song—and the jazz musicians.

They're great for laughs, but re strong for tears, too. I'll the world!

I finished the Peabody School— was graduated with honors, too, know. If anyone had told me the day I was graduated that I be here in prison and soon tried for murdering my own her, I would have thought they crazy.

But I was graduated all right and her said I ought to start in and a business course and be ready support myself and make my own in the world and be independ.

I was such a big girl, I wanted to rry and grow up and be a grown man and know the world as a own woman knows it.

I wanted to be "wise"—I didn't to be a dumb-bell.

That's what we called the girls didn't know the jazz life—dumb s—I guess they knew more than did at that, when you come to ink of it.

NTERS BUSINESS SCHOOL.

Well, I entered the Success Business School. I went there for a year and there's where I met May Fitzgerald. May is a smart kid and full of life and she saw things a good deal the way I did. We used to have lots of fun laughing over life together. But I had good marks in the school and the teachers thought I was going to make a record in the business world. Shorthand was never much bother to me and typewriting was a joke, it was so easy.

But I was pretty busy all the time I was there and I had to plug away at my books. I was pretty wild, but I didn't get much time to jazz around the way I would have liked to.

When things got dull and slow I used to say to May:

"Never mind, girlie, we'll be through with this grind pretty soon and then we can 'step out' and make things whirl."

And May would laugh and say, "Sure we can and sure we will."

When I finished my course I felt that I wasn't a girl any longer. I was a woman. I had my own way to make and I was determined to get my own kind of fun out of life and get it wherever and whenever and however I could.

THRILLED BY JAZZ.

I was always crazy about the music and dancing. Just simply a nut about it.

House-work—oh that didn't bother me much. Mother did that. It was the music that I wanted. I couldn't play any instrument myself and I was just crazy about anyone who could sing or play. I didn't care whether they played the saxe or the fiddle or the piano or what.

They labeled me a "moth," fluttering around in search for the bright lights. Well, maybe I am a moth, but the music was the thing I was after.

Critics say that jazz is not music. Well, maybe it isn't, but let me tell you jazz is more than music, if you're the kind that likes jazz.

A good jazz tune can thrill you and lift you up and make you feel as if you owned the earth and everything in it.

Earth, why, the right sort of jazz tune will make you own the stars and the sun and moon. Anyhow, that's the way I felt about it. Life without jazz wasn't life at all to me. I felt as if I'd just as soon be dead as to stay at home or sit in an office and pound the typewriter when I might be out somewhere listening to the saxe and beating time to the drum with every nerve and every drop of blood in my body.

People call the saxe the wail of a lost soul—well, I never felt as if I'd found my soul except when I was listening to that wail and then I loved to dance. I just had to dance or die.

And I loved to see other people dance. There are a lot of classy dancers in this town and I know every one of them by sight, I guess.

I never knew anything about cafe life until about eight or nine months ago. I just jazzed around with high school boys and people like that and went to the beach and on motor parties—but one night another girl and I went to the new Shanghai Cafe up on the edge of Chinatown.

There's something wonderful to me about Chinatown. I love the lights and the queer music and the shuffling feet along the sidewalk. I love the queer smells that come up through the grating and I love the bright colors, yes, I even liked the litchee nuts—and the sugared cocoanut—but what I really loved at the new Shanghai was the jazz band.

The girl who went with me was just as crazy about it as I was and we just sat there for hours.

Mayflower Returns

Washington, Jan. 19.—The Mayflower, on which President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge with a party of friends made a brief week-end cruise down the Potomac, docked early today at the navy yard.

NEW SLOGAN IN MAINE'S BOOM

Waterville, Me., Jan. 18.—A new keynote for progress in Maine, and a new slogan for Maine citizens interested in the forward movement for a "better, busier and more useful State," were sounded today by Governor Ralph O. Brewster, before a mass meeting of the United Service Organization here.

"Hold fast what you have and catch what you can," the slogan coined by Governor Brewster in his address:

He said:

"Fifty years ago scattered groups were forming in the Grange for community welfare. Later a multitude of civic and service associations came to manifest this spirit of organized helpfulness. Today all these streams are uniting their various means to serve the common end of a busier and better and more useful State of Maine.

"Keep Maine money in Maine by buying Maine products. Get more people to spend money in Maine for Maine products—potatoes and scenery and sweet corn and crystal lakes and green peas and the glow of health and juicy apples and thousands of miles of the most beautiful seacoast in the world and Sanford plush and giant hills and long-lived shoes and endless forests and so ad infinitum.

"Millions of Americans would love to come to Maine to spend money for these things if they simply realized their quality, their quantity and that they were available on reasonable terms.

"Let us all resolve to give Maine products the preference in our purchases this coming year. Let us standardize the quality of our fruits and our dairies and our service of every sort. Let us make Maine mean preeminence not alone in men and women, but in the joy and art of living as well.

TRAIN TO LEAVE AT 3 A. M.

Fair Sun-Gazers Plan to Study Phenomenon at New London

Two hundred Wellesley girls and faculty will get up at the unheard-of hour of 3 a. m. to catch the special train provided by the Boston & Albany road to carry them to New London to view the total eclipse of the sun on January 24.

Not only are Wellesley students showing enthusiasm for astronomy, but college authorities are seeing to it that nothing stands in their way, and it has been arranged that no midyear examinations should be scheduled for that Saturday. The Wellesley party is to be the guests of Connecticut College.

Professor Duncan, the head of the astronomy department, is taking a two-inch telescope and a number of smaller instruments to view the eclipse, while the students have provided themselves with pieces of smoked glass and innumerable cameras.

Faculty members of the party will include Dean Tufts, Professors Norton, Lawater and MacDowell, and Miss Mary Frazer Smith. Dana Hall and Walnut Hill schools will each have a coach on the train.

At the observatory at Wellesley it is probable some arrangement will be made so that the students who do not go to New London can view the eclipse through small telescopes. It is also probable that the time of the eclipse will be observed at Wellesley.

Eclipse Next Saturday To Be Great Show

A dull, black ball, hanging in the sky, licked around its edges with darting tongues of fire, will take hundreds of thousands of people from their benches and desks and homes on next Saturday to see "the greatest show on earth."

It will be the first total eclipse of the sun visible in New England in 119 years.

At Westerly, R. I., directly in the path of the total eclipse, accommodations are being prepared for the New England contingents which will turn out to see a phenomenon not to be seen again for a hundred years.

While many parts of southern New England will get a glimpse of the partial eclipse, the black night which will engulf those sections in the path of the total shadow will not squarely include any part of Massachusetts.

Every facility that can be afforded scientists for a thorough examination of the phenomenon will be placed at their disposal by army and navy aviation services and the coast guard.

Another navy dirigible, high above the clouds off the coast of Connecticut, manned by government experts and armed with delicate photographic instruments, will obtain records of what occurred when the moon passed between the earth and sun. An army plane equipped with similar apparatus will race the shadow across the State of New York.

Boston, outside the path as it is, will yet see much of the spectacle since the darkening effects will be visible for at least fifty miles either side of the shadow.

STUDENTS TO SEE ECLIPSE FROM GOLF COURSE

South Hadley, Jan. 19.—Mt. Holyoke College will have a special train to carry students to Windsor, Ct., Saturday to observe the solar eclipse. Seven hundred of the 950 students have signed for the trip.

The Windsor golf course has been turned over to the Smith and Mt. Holyoke students. The astronomy department has prepared a sheet of questions to aid amateur observers. More technical observations will be made by eighty students.

WOMEN'S CLUBS FIGHT "VAMPS AND SHEIKS"

San Francisco, Jan. 19.—Women's clubs and civic organizations here have started a campaign against the activities of young women designated as "vamps," and men called "sheiks," as a result of official disclosures touching on the night life of Dorothy Ellingson, sixteen years old, who shot her mother to death when the parent objected to the company and hours her daughter was keeping.

I's home is in Hangchow, China. He is twenty-four. Though he spells his name I, he pronounces it as though it were spelled "E."

THINK RIVER RELIC PART OF WASHINGTON STATUE

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 19.—The "Roman Head," recently found in the Hudson River may be the head of the Canova statue of George Washington, destroyed in 1831 when the North Carolina state capitol was burned, R. O. Everett, a member of the State House of Representatives, said today. Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, will go to New York to examine the head, Mr. Everett said. The head, the only portion of the statue saved in the fire, was taken to New York by a sculptor employed to reproduce the statue.

POLICE ARE BAFFLED BY MURDER OF BOY

Newport, R. I., Jan. 19.—All efforts of the Newport police to find a clue that would aid them in solving the murder of Leroy Rose, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Rose, who was murdered on January 7, have failed.

During the past week the officers have made many visits to the scene of the murder, directly in the rear of the John M. Friend granite block company in the New Haven railroad yards. More than twenty persons have been questioned, but nothing has been learned to aid them in solving the mystery.

When the boy's body was found half-frozen lying face downward in a pool of blood, it was believed he had fallen and struck his head on a piece of granite and had fractured his skull.

After an autopsy performed by Dr. William Sherman, medical examiner of Newport County, it was found he had first been struck and knocked unconscious by a blow on the forehead and that a granite block weighing thirty-three pounds had been used to crush his skull.

The last person to see Rose alive was his schoolmate, Joseph San Firropo, fifteen years old, of Porter street, Newport. He left Rose shortly after 7 o'clock on the night of the murder after urging him to go to a picture show.

San Firropo told the police that he met his chum at his home last Sunday evening and that they both dropped into the Y. M. C. A. He said that he urged Leroy to go to the Strand with him, but that he, Leroy, told him he was going to visit his friends at the round house and that he was going to return to his home when the 9:27 train came up to the station from the railroad yard.

BEDROOM FARCE IS FEATURE OF FENWAY BILL

"Little Miss Bluebeard" Featuring Bebe Daniels Uproariously Funny

An uproarious bedroom farce is "Little Miss Bluebeard," this week's offering at the Fenway Theatre.

This is one of Bebe Daniels' most delightful offerings and provides diverting entertainment. It is an intriguing bit of nonsense and feminine folly, and [illegible] are mixed up with beds and bedrooms and various predicaments, all in the [illegible] of husband to the one lady, in a bewildering manner. Bebe is decidedly chic as Colette Girard, the "female Bluebeard," and wears some dazzling gowns and negligees while her "bob" is attractive whatever way she arranges it.

Raymond Griffith as the [illegible] Boris provides some delicious comedy in his wild efforts to help his friends and incidentally secure forty winks.

Robert Fraser is the handsome musician Larry Charters, whose "operations" are numerous and beautiful until he finds the right girl, and Kenneth McKenna plays Bob, Larry's friend, the cause of all his [illegible] which end by being gone. Diana Kane looks pretty as Bob's fiancee and Martha Madison as Lulu, the [illegible], [illegible] good work.

Lloyd del Castillo's version of "Dear One" is intriguing. His accompaniment of "All Alone," sung by Bianca Fabri, is beautifully arranged. Miss Fabri also sings Arditi's "Il Bacio." The usual educational features complete the offerings.

Picturesque Ball for Natalie Hammond to Be Notable Event of Year

By Betty Alden

THE MARIE ANTOINETTE COSTUME BALL THE JOHN Hays Hammonds are giving in Washington on February 17 for their daughter Natalie promises a most glamorous and picturesque evening. The Hammonds do that sort of thing to perfection. As witness the brilliant bal masque they gave a Winter or so ago, which reached the pinnacle for beauty and smartness, and sets a goal for the coming affair.

NATALIE WAS presented last Winter down in Washington, where the Hammonds maintain an establishment when they are not at their East Gloucester place or sojourning in some world capital of Continental Europe, South Africa or elsewhere.

SHE HAS A cosmopolitan background of wide travel and foreign residence and study, for the entire family are citizens of the world and have friends everywhere. Needless to say she is a belle in Washington and wherever else social activities call her.

AS TO THE masculine Hammonds—quite aside from the lustre reflected from high social position—they have blazed paths of glory for themselves in scientific fields and those of large affairs.

THE ELDER IS known the world around as a mining expert of top-notch achievement. The younger has taken to those modern giants, electricity and wireless, and with wizard touch is conjuring up new marvels to astonish mankind.

JUST RECENTLY he was summoned to Rome, there to confer with governmental dignitaries in some matter of much significance scientifically.

HARRISON GARDNER, son of the Philip Gardners of Commonwealth avenue, now on the broad Atlantic, is bound for a round-the-world cruise aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France. He graduated from Harvard last year. His sister is Virginia Gardner.

SHE IS PROMINENT in the younger coteries and vibrates in her social orbit between Baltimore and Boston, equally at home in the inner circles in both cities and a belle in each.

HER BALTIMORE debut was made last Winter at the Bachelors' Cotillon, that ultra exclusive function of brilliance equal to Boston's assemblies.

ALICE CHILDS, of Baltimore, has recently been a house guest of the Gardners and has participated in a number of balls here. At the Dexter ball she appeared in lustrous white satin dotted with ermine, one of the attractive out-of-town coterie.

MISS GRETCHEN BROWN.
Is down in Pittsburgh to be maid of honor at one of the important weddings there, and for a round of festivities.

Early Planning for Next Winter Season

SPEAKING of balls and [illegible] affairs—I hear that mothers of Boston's prominently connected debutantes-to-be are taking a leaf from Gotham's note book and are early reserving debut dates for next Winter.

EVERY Friday in December is gone, and other choice evenings are going rapidly, for it behooves far-visioned mothers to set the all-important date long before actual plans for the presentation are completed.

ALL this advance flurry means, of course, a gay Winter with full to overflowing engagement books for the coming out set, a prospect sure to delight their hearts.

THAT Bayard Tuckerman, Bayard Warren, Quincy Shaw McKean and kindred sportsmen and dog fanciers are taking a lively interest in coming dog shows goes without saying.

AT a recent dinner at the Country Club plans for the thirteenth annual show of the Eastern Dog Club, to be held in February, were discussed. Bayard Warren is president, and he and Mr. Tuckerman and Mr. McKean own any number of already famous dogs which they show here and there about the country.

THE Rummage Sale which Mesdames Laurence Morgan, Marshall Fabyan, Francis H. Appleton, Jr., Edward Brandeges and John E. Boit are arranging, of which I spoke a day or two ago, will take place on February 3 and 4 at No. 709 Boylston street.

All sorts of "rummage" is acceptable, and may be sent to No. 709 Boylston street daily on and after Monday, January 26, so Mrs. Morgan wishes announced.

The House of Mercy is to benefit, and each year a tidy sum is added to that organization's exchequer by means of some such sale.

POE'S BIRTHDAY TO BE OBSERVED IN BOSTON

After much research, the long debated question of where and when Edgar Allan Poe was born has been settled and the 116th anniversary of his birth will be observed today at the Boston Public Library by an exhibition of first editions and autograph letters, of which the library possesses the largest collection.

It was long thought that Poe was born in Baltimore in 1811, but it has been definitely established that he was born in Boston on January 19, 1809, in a house on Carver street, which is now numbered 62.

The exhibition will be in the Barton room.

BOY SCOUTS SALUTE PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, Jan. 19.—Two hundred Boy Scouts from Brooklyn, standing at attention before the east portico of the White House, saluted President Coolidge when he left the mansion to attend church. After the President had returned the salute, the boys repeated the scout oath of allegiance to the flag.

KREISLER PLAYS TO FULL HOUSE AT SYMPHONY

The "one and only" Fritz Kreisler, recently arrived from Europe, gave his first concert of the season in Boston at Symphony Hall yesterday afternoon to an audience that crowded the house, including all the seats that could be placed on the stage and several rows deep of standees.

The hair on the great violinist's head has grayed appreciably since his last visit to Boston, and his face looks a bit older, but to his thousands of listeners he was the same Kreisler. His tone is still unmatchable in its beauty, his intonation is still the marvel of accuracy that it has been for years. And yesterday he displayed flashes of technical brilliancy that were a surprise to those even who know him well.

It is very hard not to rhapsodize over such gorgeous artistry as Kreisler displayed in Handel's A major Sonata and the Bruch G minor Concerto. The playing of the latter piece, in particular, was a marvel to hear.

The program was short and well arranged, but the concert was long, on account of the wealth of extra numbers at the close.

CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH AS PARENTS CHAT

Waterbury, Ct., Jan. 19.—While Harry Loomis and his wife of Middlebury were talking and laughing in the living room of the Loomis parental home, their four children were being burned to death in a second floor bed chamber of the rambling structure.

The victims of the tragedy are Ruhanna Loomis, aged eight, Thomas, five, Juanita, three, and Merrill, two.

The Loomis family was passing the week end at the home of Mr. Loomis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loomis.

FRENCH PLANES FORCED DOWN IN AFRICA

Buc, France, Jan. 19 (A.P.)—After having been postponed for four days, chiefly owing to fog, the two French airplanes which will endeavor to make a flight across North Africa got away yesterday. The flyers, however, met with bad luck on the first leg of their journey, for instead of flying to Perpignan, 425 miles away, the first stop on the schedule, they were compelled by unfavorable winds to land at 1:30 o'clock at Avord, 150 miles from Buc.

FILIPINO CHIEF SAYS U. S. RULE MUST END

MINOT'S LIGHT PHONE BRINGS AID TO 3

J. E. Holden of Lynn and two companions owe their lives to the fact that Minot's Light is equipped with a telephone, combined with the skill and bravery of the Scituate coast guard.

Holden and his friends were cast adrift in their helpless forty-foot motorboat the Trixey II, off Minot's Light and were rapidly being carried on the reefs when the light tender saw their plight and telephoned the coast guard.

Captain John J. Glynn and his crew of the Scituate station at once put out in their launch and after a desperate battle with heavy seas and a gale, they made fast to the drifting launch as it was almost on the reefs.

The launch was towed to Scituate. Holden and his men had put out from Lynn, intending to run to Boston, when a piston stuck, putting the engine out of commission.

GREEN FAVORS CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Its Opponents Without Defence, He Says in Speech at Gompers Service

William Green, the successor to Samuel Gompers as head of the American Federation of Labor, has been revealed at first hand to Boston as a "safe and sane" head of the greatest labor organization in the world.

Mr. Green, coming to Boston to deliver the principal address at the Gompers memorial service, under the direction of the Boston Central Labor Union at Franklin Union, was outspoken in outlining his policies.

The new head of the A. F. of L. is dead set against the radical.

OPPOSES RADICALS.

"We cannot, we must not jeopardize the success and accomplishments of 35 years of sacrifice and service by experimentation in the fields of untried theories," he said.

Although speaking in Boston, which at a recent election voted overwhelmingly against the Child Labor amendment to the Constitution, Mr. Green left no doubt as to where he stood on the matter.

"I am committed to the Child Labor amendment and am thoroughly and heartily in favor of it. From a labor and a humanitarian standpoint, its opponents are without defense of any kind," he said.

Although a total abstainer and personally in favor of prohibition, Mr. Green declared that he is 100 per cent. for the American Federation's demand for a revision of the Volstead law, with the incorporation of more liberal terms.

URGES REVISION.

"I have been classed as a radical dry," he said. "I do not drink myself. When I was a young man I made up my mind I could do better work without liquor in my system. I still adhere to that principal.

"The American Federation of Labor, however, has rendered its decision at several of its conventions for modification of the Volstead act. Their decision will be adhered to by me, as President, to that end."

The present restrictive immigration laws were lauded by President Green as a "wonderful step in the right direction."

"If the bars were let down," he continued, "we would be swamped by a European influx and our prosperity would indeed be short lived."

In his address at Franklin Union, President Green lauded the late Samuel Gompers, in concluding, pledged himself to carry on the labor banner so ably borne by Gompers before him.

LANREZAC, HERO OF GUIZE, IS DEAD AT 72

Paris, Jan. 19 (A.P.)—The death of General Charles Lanrezac in his seventy-third year closed a military career which gave rise to much discussion. He was appointed to command the Fifth Army on August 2, 1914. This army sustained the shock of the German attack at Charleroi. During the retreat from Charleroi Lanrezac won a brilliant victory at Guize. Nevertheless, Lanrezac was relieved of his command. The impression he had been misjudged grew, until in July, 1919, he was made a grand officer of the Legion of Honor.

OPERA—by Radio
All the charm of the music and vocal superiority of the opera—lacking only (of course) the grace and dignity of the acting.
The charm of opera is due largely to the care exercised in the selection of the trained voices of the actors, and although the broadcast itself will not injure the tone quality, reproduction by the radio receiver may distort it.
Poor tone quality may result from defective installation of the receiver, or from the internal construction of the set itself. Avoid distortion and poor tone quality by buying the set adapted to your locality, and properly installed at a reasonable charge by the Shepard Stores radio experts.
Pride in our own broadcast programs requires that we recommend and sell only reliable sets to ensure proper reception.

Duchess to Ski

GRAND DUCHESS BORIS.
Wife of the cousin of the late Czar and her husband plan to visit Western Massachusetts Winter resorts for skiing and other outdoor sports.

BORIS AND WIFE MAY BE GUESTS OF HUB FOLK

Boston society may have an opportunity to play hostess to Grand Duke Boris and his wife, the grand duchess.

The cousin of the former Czar of Russia, now the leader of New York's social activities, is planning to spend a brief holiday period participating in Winter sports.

On his former visit to the United States, the bright lights were so attractive to the Grand Duke that he never strayed far from Broadway, but now, accompanied by his wife and her mother, he is anxious to see some of the country.

Accordingly, his secretaries have sought information about Western Massachusetts and other parts of New England where Winter sports are popular.

It is understood that when the Grand Duke and his party go to play they will make their headquarters in Boston and will spend some time here.

VARSITY CLUB FORMED AT NORTHEASTERN

Professor Joseph Spear, director of student activities, Northeastern University, has announced the formation of a Varsity Club.

Its primary function is to establish and maintain good fellowship among all letter men both in and out of school. Only "N" men are eligible to membership. H. O. Fundin '24, of Hyde Park, was elected president.

Judge Thayer "Normal"

Having passed the danger of further complications, the condition of Judge Webster Thayer was described "as normal as can be expected," in a bulletin issued from the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Fright Kills Man Who Found Burglars in Store

Peekskill, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The fright he received when he surprised two burglars at work in his store a month ago is thought to be responsible for the death of Leverett Kilmer.

When they saw Kilmer, the burglars fled, leaving $1,500 in bills in the safe. But Kilmer's heart was permanently affected by the shock of the encounter, according to his physicians.

EVERETT CELL OPENS TO BOY'S LONG ARM

Police Chief Hill Indignant at "Paper" Insinuation After Fourth Escape

Chief of Police William E. Hill and other officials of the Everett police are indignantly denying today that the cells and locks of the Everett police station are constructed of papier mache.

The rumor gained general circulation when another prisoner, James J. Kelley, seventeen-year-old alleged burglar, forced his way from a cell and escaped from the police station.

Recently, three bandits escaped from the same cell.

No one about the police station saw Kelley escape. He was recaptured some hours later, when he returned to his old haunts in South Everett.

"Kelley has long arms. I guess he reached a hook and let himself out," was the only explanation the chief could make.

Kelley and two companions, Edward J. Tucker, fifteen years old, of No. 1 Jacobs place, and Angelo Barletta of No. 140 Bow street, were arrested while seated on a truck load of brewery stock from a warehouse. Kelly was the only one who was forced to go to the trouble of letting himself out of the police station, his companions furnishing bail.

BUILDERS FACE BIG YEAR IN BOSTON

Permits Already Issued Account for $30,000,000 Construction Work

Building construction in the six New England States during 1925 assure skilled craftsmen of adequate employment, particularly in Boston and several other Massachusetts cities, according to the report issued here by the United States employment service.

Boston with building permits already issued for construction totaling $30,000,000, is pointing to a record breaking year. Rhode Island with Providence as the chief centre of activity also promises a busy year. Contemplated building plans include hotels, apartment houses and dormitories, and smaller dwellings, hospitals and schools, banks, manufacturing plants and office buildings.

Lynn, Fall River, and Gardner will build school buildings with a total cost amounting to $1,500,000.

Considerable building is planned, especially in the larger cities of this State for 1925 and every indication points to a record-breaking year in building in the city of Boston. It is estimated that building permits will indicate a $12,000,000 boost and a large amount of municipal work. All resident craftsmen in this city and vicinity should be well employed but no marked shortage of tradesmen is anticipated.

In Cambridge contemplated projects include four apartment houses, three dormitories for Harvard College, a fire engine house and two factory buildings. These activities will employ between 700 and 800 men with no shortage of skilled craftsmen expected.

In Lynn the erection of a junior high school at a cost of $400,000 is planned for 1925 and a number of moderate priced houses will be built.

AMELIA, HEROIC QUEEN OF NAPLES, IS DEAD

Munich, Bavaria, Jan. 19 (A.P.)—Former Queen Maria Sophia Amelia of Naples died here today. She was born in 1841, the daughter of Duke Carl Theodore of Bavaria, and was married in 1859 to Francis II, last of the Bourbon Kings of Naples.

Francis was routed in 1860 by Garibaldi when the latter conquered Sicily and Naples. The Queen placed herself, with a flag in hand, at the head of the forces and encouraged them to resist the invaders. A fortress was betrayed and captured on Feb. 12, 1861. Naples became united with Sardinia in one kingdom and the royal pair fled, afterward leading a wandering life in Austria, France and Bavaria.

FRANK L. STANTON POET LAUREATE OF GEORGIA

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 19.—Frank L. Stanton, author of "Mighty Lak' a Rose," "Just A'Wearyin' for you," has been named poet laureate of Georgia in an official proclamation by Governor Walker.

Stanton, who was a friend of James Whitcomb Riley, Eugene Field, Henry W. Grady and Joel Chandler Harris, will be sixty-eight years old on February 22. Governor Walker called upon all Georgians to observe the poet's birthday.

Two of his poems, "Lynched" and "They're Hung Bill Jones," once caused an Oklahoma Governor to commute the sentence of a man condemned to hang.

TWO CHILDREN DEAD, THIRD DIES ON TRAIN

Cleveland, O., Jan. 19 (Universal Service)—Edgar Bielfelt and his wife reached here today with their six children. Three of the children were dead. The family left Los Vegas, N. M., Thursday after two of the children had died. They wanted to bury them at their old hime in Cleveland.

On the train, nearing Chicago, the third died. An undertaker prepared the body for burial and the family proceeded on its way, arriving here today.

$10,000,000 CATHOLIC BUILDING TO BE PUT UP

Baltimore, Jan. 19. — A building program which will entail the expenditure of more than $10,000,000 on Catholic edifices in the northern suburbs of Baltimore is outlined by Archbishop Curley of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

It includes the erection of the new St. Mary's Sulpician Seminary Buildings at Roland Park at a cost of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 with work to start not later than 1926, and the building of one of the most beautiful cathedrals in this country at a cost of more than $5,000,000.

SOUTH END MAN DIVES FOUR STORIES TO DEATH

Despondent because he was unable to find employment, Ernest Boutlier, fifty-two years old, unmarried, of No. 52 Berkeley street, South End, made doubly sure of succeeding, when he decided to take his own life.

Standing on a window ledge on the fourth floor of the building, Boutlier slashed one of his wrists with a razor and then leaped from the window to the courtyard below. He was dead when found by Sergeant John J. Hanrahan of the East Dedham street station.

Western Pep Would Make B. & M. Prosperous

Topsfield Fair Society Head Gives Public His Views

By BERT FORD

The pep and co-operation characteristic of the West, are needed by the railroads and the industries of New England, according to President I. H. Sawyer of the Topsfield Fair Society.

Mr. Sawyer in discussing the Boston & Maine Railroad's plan to abandon unprofitable branch lines, says teamwork on the part of the railroad official and officials of communities and manufacturing plants would greatly stimulate conditions here.

He says if this united interest had been shown in Topsfield the town would not have lost its shoe industry. President Sawyer asks:

"Is the Boston & Maine Railroad alive to its opportunities?"

In voicing this question, Mr. Sawyer said he did not wish to "take the attitude of criticising."

TELLS TOWNS' NEEDS.

"I am greatly interested in the branch line from Wakefield Centre to Newburyport which passes through the towns of Lynnfield, Danvers, Topsfield, Georgetown and Byfield," added Mr. Sawyer.

"I am interested as president of the Topsfield Fair Society, whose officials have requested the Boston & Maine Railroad officials to run a special train from Boston to Topsfield during the four days of the fair, a distance of ten miles, believing that a special train would be patronized by passengers along the main line of the road as far east as Portsmouth and Portland, also the following branch lines: Essex, Gloucester, the main line Boston to Salem, Saugus, Lowell and Lawrence branches.

"We had received reports from persons along these branch lines that they could not get to the fair except by automobile. As many as 25,000 persons attend this fair every year and many of them would prefer to come by train instead of automobile, but have been unable to get the railroad to run this special train.

"Years ago there were three shoe factories in Topsfield where not less than 300 to 400 hands were employed. The old people having passed on, when not succeeded by any members of the family in the business, nothing was done to perpetuate these factories. Neither the Boston & Maine Railroad, the town officials or the public did anything to continue this shoe business which might have been done to the advantage of all concerned.

SAME IN OTHER TOWNS.

"These same conditions prevail in many of the New England towns. The manufacturing business has gone to the larger cities or outside of New England. The West especially has offered great inducements. In the Middle West, such States as Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee and others have offered great inducements to manufacturers to locate their plants in the smaller cities and towns, giving the manufacturer whatever land he would use on which to erect a plant, a cash bonus of from $50,000 to $250,000 with which to build a factory which would be exempt from taxation for ten years.

"I am familiar with dozens of places where this has been done, everyone of which has been a success. The railroads have five industrial agents who are looking for every possible opportunity to build up business.

"Why can't this be done in New England? I think the labor conditions with the railroads are detrimental to success. Railroads are compelled to employ more help than is necessary to handle the business to advantage. Many small towns are now obliged to provide a station agent, a freight agent and a man to flag the crossing at not less than $160 per month each man, when one man could practically fill all three positions to the satisfaction of the railroad and the public.

"I have lived in the West and also in New England and still believe that by co-operation of the railroads, the town officials and the public, New England can be made to prosper in the future the same as in the past."

FRANK A. GOODWIN

The Registrar of Vehicles wants the Interstate Commerce Commission to authorize the use of roadbeds which the Boston & Maine may abandon to be used exclusively for motor trucks for freight.

Railroad Not Alive to Its Opportunities, Says Sawyer

GOODWIN'S IDEA.

The suggestion has been made that any of the roadbeds of branch lines which the Interstate Commerce Commission may authorize to be abandoned, should be used as motor highways exclusively for motor trucks for freight and commercial transportation.

The contemplated plan would exclude touring cars from these roads, the foundation and construction of which are built to stand the weight of locomotives and heavy cars would be ideal for laden motor truck traffic.

Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, favors the plan. He said:

"Any roads to which trucks could be confined would help to make for safety. Such roads would relieve congestion somewhat on the main highways. The great trouble is that the number of automobiles has increased out of proportion to the increase in the number of miles of the road. Therefore anything that would quickly increase road mileage would be a benefit."

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, Creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

U. S. CONSUL ON ISLE OF PINES DENIES DISORDER

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 19. — The American consul at Nueva Gerona, Isle of Pines, Charles Forhan, has reported that he knew nothing of the reports of serious disorders there, due to feeling over the Hay-Quesada treaty now pending in the United States Senate.

There has been considerable tension between Cuban and American elements in the Isle of Pines over the question of whether the island is legally American or Cuban territory, and government officials in Havana admitted that there had been "some excited talk," but nothing more.

BUTLER'S BILL WOULD BOOM HUB PORT

Senator Seeks to Regain Old-Time Maritime Glory for Boston

Washington, Jan. 19 (Universal)—Senator William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican National Committee, has begun his legislative career with a bang.

The first bill that he has introduced is an attempt to solve one of the most complicated railroad rate situations in the United States.

Senator Butler proposes a law which, he believes will settle for all time the competition between the Atlantic seaports. One or more of them is continually before the Interstate Commerce Commission or the Shipping Board alleging it is being discriminated against in railroad or ocean rates.

Incidentally, if Senator Butler's bill becomes law, he will render an almost unexampled service to Massachusetts and give the port of Boston a chance to regain its former maritime glory.

Commercial interests in Boston, the city of Boston and the State of Massachusetts have jointly spent scores of thousands of dollars trying in vain to persuade the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant Boston the export and import rail rates which Senator Butler hopes to attain by a law of Congress.

The strength of Senator Butler's position is that his legislation is framed on such broad lines that it not only enlists the support of Boston and New England interests but New York, the South Atlantic and Gulf ports, and all the Middle West commercial interests.

TROTZKY EXPELLED FROM SOVIET WAR COUNCIL

Moscow, Jan. 19 (by A. P.).—Leon Trotzky will not be permitted to remain on the Soviet War Council, and he is warned that a continuance of disobedience will culminate in his being expelled from the Political Bureau and the Soviet Executive Committee.

The communication says that at a plenary meeting of the executive committee and control commission of the Communist party, it was decided, almost unanimously, first, to invite Trotzky effectively to submit to party discipline; second, that his retention of the War Council must be regarded as impossible, and, third, that the question of the further employment of Trotzky on the Executive Committee be postponed until the next party congress, with a warning that his continued disobedience would entail his removal from the Political Bureau and the Executive Committee.

PARK STREET MAN SAYS 'DEATH REPORT IS FAKE'

When Police Inspector William T. Fahy of Melrose, acting upon a persistent rumor that the body found frozen in the snow at Island Hill near the Malden-Melrose line Saturday was that of Matthew Cassell of Park street, went to the Cassell home to convey the tragic tidings, Mr. Cassell answered the ring.

"I suppose I should be down in the morgue or undertaking parlors right now," Mr. Cassell told the inspector, "but I'm positive I'm alive."

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough instantly. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle, and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with such ease and promptness that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CO-OPERATION REQUESTED FOR TESTS

Next Saturday is the day for the eclipse and many stations in or near the eclipse area are broadcasting special programs to determine the effect, if any, of the eclipse on radio conditions.

Radio is better at night than in the day. Why? Will the eclipse be accompanied by unusual disturbances? Will static be less or more than we ordinarily get?

These questions may not be solved but an attempt will be made, at least, and the co-operation of everybody is asked for. A special log will be kept of any fading, static interference or any other unusual phenomena, and sent to Bureau of Standards at Washington.

Station CFCA at Toronto is to keep a radio log. WEEI, Edison Light, will begin broadcasting at 8 a. m. Saturday, and will continue for one hour. The eclipse begins at 9:04 and ends at 10:36.

Portable Station WTAT will be taken on board the U. S. Coast Guard Tampa and will put to sea on the 23rd. Broadcasting will be almost continuous and from where the ship lies in the middle of the path of the total eclipse it is expected that the usual strength of the signals will be obtained.

LAST NIGHT ON THE AIR

By THE LISTENER

Roxy and his "gang" held the stage again last night, coming through WEEI. With a galaxy of artists seldom heard at any single gathering Mr. Rothafel gave the [illegible] something which probably eclipsed any of his previous offering. There was orchestra music, banjo music, male and female voices, quartets, piano solos and a generous abundance of Roxy's own humor. It was without question a wonderful program.

In listening to WBZ and the afternoon broadcast of the People's Symphony and Harvard Glee Club it was very easy to notice the loud heterodyning squeal which has accompanied their wave for the past couple of days. This continuous squeal which may be noticed on some stations is characteristic of what happens when one broadcasting station interferes with another.

The signals from the interfering station are rarely loud enough to enable you to hear the voices or music, but the carrier wave is so strong as to severely mar the quality of the nearer station.

For instance a station in New York could be made to come in with a squeal if it happened to be too close to the wave of some station broadcasting 1000 miles or more distant.

The morning sermons of Rabbi Levi, broadcast from Temple Israel by WNAC, are always interesting. This is largely due to the clear enunciation of this gentleman. Several of my friends have expressed admiration and wonder at how anyone can speak so rapidly and yet be so easily understood over the radio.

Rabbi Levi's sermons are also well adapted to broadcasting because his remarks are such as would be found interesting by the average man, regardless of religious denomination.

Receiving conditions were about fair. While there was practically an absence of static, the heterodyning between various stations rendered things decidedly uncomfortable.

On the short waves below 300 meters the squeals were very abundant. In shifting to the higher waves things were a lot better, although I was bother by [illegible] more or less. About the only thing you could do to be sure of clear reception was to stick to the locals.

Radio Queries

Q.—Why do I have to turn on the audio rheostat full in order to eliminate a howl in the audio amplifier? E. A. P.

A.—A low A battery, poor tubes or transformers connected wrong. A small fixed condenser across the secondary will generally stop it, or a variable resistance, such as sold for this purpose, will help.

Q.—Can I build a stage radio frequency ahead of the enclosed hook up? S. H.

A.—It would not be possible. You are confused as to the purpose of Radio frequency amplification.

Q.—Would it be possible to connect up the Superflex set with the [illegible] circuit using a potentiometer and transformer? H. H.

A.—It would be possible but would not advise doing so.

Q.—What changes would be necessary to change over my old Super to a new type? T. C. M. R.

A.—Replace the old coils and condensers with the Regenaformer Units, and change some of the wiring. The data for this is on file in the Radio Dept. Come in and look it over.

Q.—My improved type American Super tunes broadly. What is the trouble? G. B.

A.—Without seeing the set it will not be possible to actually locate your trouble. You either have some wrong connections or the antenna series condenser is not of the correct capacity.

Q.—Where may I get some information about wave traps? H. H. C.

A.—Any Radio dealer in your locality should be able to show you one or give such information as you desire.

Q.—Would it be advisable to wind the regenaformer coils with No. 18 instead of No. 20? J. M. H.

A.—Stick to the original specifications and save trouble. It can be wound with No. 18 but would necessitate changing the size of coil.

SHARPER WAVE FOR WEEI IS EXPECTED

Many local fans have been complaining of the broadness of the wave emitted by WEEI. These complaints are nearly all local as it is more noticeable within short range of the station.

The company asks the receivers to bear in mind that the wave length of broadcasting stations is set by the government and not by the station. The Edison company is waiting for a piece of apparatus on which work is being rushed. It is expected that when this arrives the wave will be sharper.

Out of 149 letters received, 126 stated that the new wave length is an improvement and twenty-three favored the use of the old wave.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The first request this morning is for a recipe for

RECIPE NO. 841.
BANANA PIE

3 bananas.
¾ cup sugar.
1 tablespoon fat.
2 eggs.
⅛ tablespoon salt.
1-3 cup flour.
¾ cup boiling water.
½ tablespoon vanilla.
6 tablespoons sugar.
Pastry.

Line a medium-sized pie plate with pastry, having a fluted edge and bake in very hot oven for 12 minutes. Meanwhile cream together the ¾ cup of sugar and the butter, add the egg yolks beaten slightly, the flour and boiling water and cook in the top of a double-boiler, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cool and add the vanilla. Peel and slice the bananas and place a layer of them in the bottom of the baked pastry shell. Spread with a layer of the cream filling, lay on another of the bananas and top with cream filling. Make a meringue from the two egg-whites and six tablespoons of sugar; arrange on the top of the pie and bake in a very moderate oven for 15 minutes, or until a delicate brown.

"How do you cook sweet potatoes with brown sugar?" asks Mrs. C. F. H. of Brighton. I think this is the recipe she wants—

RECIPE NO. 843
GEORGIA POTATOES

6 medium-sized sweet potatoes.
½ teaspoon pepper.
2 tablespoons butter.
½ lemon.
1 teaspoon salt.
¾ cup brown sugar.

Wash the potatoes and boil them until tender; remove the skins and cut into rather thick, lengthwise slices. Season with salt and pepper, and place in a shallow greased pan. Sprinkle with brown sugar, and the juice and grated rind of the lemon. Dot over with butter, and bake for 30 minutes in a hot oven.

"I'd like to make some gingerbread men for sale in my bakery. Please tell me how."—This from Newton. I'm giving the recipe from the Gingerbread-man Book that many of our club members received as souvenirs at the Christmas party.

RECIPE NO. 843.
GINGERBREAD MEN.

2½c. flour.
3tsp. bkg. powder.
1-3 tsp. salt.
1 tsp. ginger.
2-3c. molasses.
1-4c. brown sugar.
1 egg.
1-3c. shortening.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and ginger together. Mix molasses, sugar, egg and melted shortening together. Add the dry ingredients to make soft dough. Shape in form of little men, animals or plain cookies; bake on greased pan in moderate oven 10 to 12 minutes.

The men can be made by forcing the dough through a pastry bag or cornucopia made with plain letter paper. Use tops of cloves, currants or rice for making faces and buttons. This recipe makes eighteen small men (about four inches high). For colored coats use following:

COLORED ICING

1½c. confectioner's sugar.
½ tsp. butter.
½ tsp. vanilla extract.
2 tbsps. hot milk or unsweetened condensed milk.

Add butter to hot milk; add sugar slowly to make right consistency to spread; add vanilla. For pink icing add one tablespoon strawberry or other fruit juice. For yellow icing add one teaspoon egg yolk and flavor with one teaspoon lemon juice and orange rind.

McCORMACK TO QUIT SINGING FOR RADIO

John McCormack is off radio. Charles L. Wagner, the singer's manager, terms the Irish tenor's broadcasting January 1 from WEAF and eight allied stations merely as "McCormack's New Year's gift to the world." It is alleged that the radio hurt McCormack's drawing power and record sales.

This announcement that McCormack is through radioing came almost simultaneously with the passing of a resolution by the National Music Managers' Association who went on record as condemning radio broadcasting by concert stars of America. This action comes as the result of the McCormack-Bori program sent out through WEAF at the instance of the Victor Talking Machine Company.

"PEG TOP" TROUSERS TO COME BACK THIS YEAR

Chicago, Jan. 19.—The wide-spread fear that "peg top" trousers would sneak back into fashion this Spring disguised as "wide trouser cuffs" has been justified.

The International Association of Clothing Designers, meeting here, has announced that the "peg-top" trousers are to return after a long period "because of the demand from young men who indulge in ultra advance styles."

Passports to Mexico

Mexico City, Jan. 19 (Universal Cable).—Mexico will demand passports from all visitors. The Secretary of the Interior has issued orders to the immigration department to demand passports of persons entering Mexico.

86 Pets Found in 12-Ft. Square Room in Woman's Home

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Eighty-six pets quartered in one room are too many, in the opinion of L. C. Kruger of the Anti-Cruelty Society.

Kruger was summoned by complaints of neighbors to the home of a woman with a "pet complex."

Upon arrival Kruger said he found 86 pets, all quartered in their mistress' living room, which was only 12 feet square. The menagerie included 72 dogs, 9 cats, 1 goat, 2 chickens and 2 ducks.

MOTHER AGED 35, WITH 16 CHILDREN, INSANE

Carbondale, Ill., Jan. 19.—Wed to a man three times her age when fourteen years old, now at the age of thirty-five, Mrs. Bertha Ledbetter, wife of Rufus Ledbetter of Halliday [illegible], near here, is the mother of sixteen children which included one set of triplets and three sets of twins.

Several of the children are dead. She was examined yesterday by a commission of physicians who pronounced her feeble-minded with the mentality of an eight-year-old child.

A few days ago the family was found lacking raiment and food. Charity organizations rendered the family aid. Ledbetter, the father, has been charged with violation of the dry laws.

Chicago Barricades Its Streets in War on 3,000,000 Rats

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Chicago's great war upon the estimated 3,000,000 rats that infest South Water street along the water front will get underway today. Barricades have been thrown up to prevent the vast colony of rodents from escaping the drive on a nuisance that will cost thousands of dollars before it is completed.

A new poison which is odorless and tasteless will be the principal weapon of offence. It is spread upon meat and vegetables. One bite does the work. It sets up a very high temperature and the rat seeks the nearest water

MAY STILL RUE DAY, HE SAYS

Gunman Raves in Anger When Told Former Pal Gave Away Hiding Place

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—"A snitch is the most despicable creature that walks. They can sell me for blood money all they please—I'll never turn up a buddy."

There was bitterness and venom in the words as they came from the lips of Gerald Chapman, master train robber, thief and slayer.

Detectives had just told Chapman that a former pal of his had given the detectives the "tip" on which he was located and arrested in Muncie, Ind.

ABSOLVES POLICE.

"I can't blame you fellows for arresting me," the detectives were told by the man who is wanted for half a dozen major crimes, including several murders, and who already has a long term to serve in Atlanta, from where he escaped two years ago.

"Boys, I've done a lot of tough jobs in my life, but believe me I never turned Judas. I'm not dead yet and the squealer may yet live to rue his act."

Then followed a string of oaths as America's worst "bad man" gave vent to his pent up anger.

Chapman, in custody of Post Office Inspector A. R. Kelly, and three detectives, arrived here from Muncie, Ind., and was taken immediately to the Marion county jail for safekeeping.

Chapman, after the initial attempt at violence, calmed down, Kelly said, and sat quietly between two detectives, while being rushed to Indianapolis.

HEARING TODAY.

Chapman will be held for the warden of the Atlanta, Ga., Federal Prison, Alexander G. Gavins, United States District Attorney, said today.

Chapman escaped from the Atlanta institution in March, 1923, a few months after he had been sentenced to serve twenty-five years in connection with the $2,400,000 mail truck robbery in New York in 1921.

Chapman since his last escape also was charged with killing a Mt. Vernon, N. Y., policeman. The opinion of postal authorities here tonight was that Chapman would be taken to Atlanta to finish serving his present term before being tried in connection with the policeman's death.

Cognizant of Chapman's record for escaping the law local authorities were taking no chances on the notorious bandit breaking jail here. Chapman was confined to a separate cell and an armed guard was set to watch him until federal authorities are ready to start the trip to Atlanta.

Police intended to grill Chapman today regarding a number of recent robberies in the vicinity of Muncie. Preliminary questioning failed to bring forth any admission, but Chapman, when arrested at Muncie, had in his possession a large quantity of nitro-glycerine, more than $4,000 in cash, and jewelry which detectives believe might be a part of the loot obtained in the New York customs robbery.

Chapman Wanted Here for Randolph Bank Robbery

Gerald Chapman, the underworld's most famous "pretty trick," who was arrested in Muncie, Ind., was being sought by Massachusetts State police and Pinkertons for the looting of the Randolph Savings Bank in November, 1919.

The Randolph job took place in daylight and was carried out by four men, headed by Chapman, known as "The Duke," because of his snappy dress and apparent culture.

They bound and gagged N. Irving Tolman, treasurer of the bank; Miss Frances Howard, assistant treasurer, and George W. Glidden, who entered a few minutes after the stick-up. The "guns" then systematically looted the bank, obtaining $40,000, and making a getaway in an automobile.

Chapman was also sought for the shooting of Patrolman James Skelly in New Britain, Ct., last October. Walter Shean of Springfield, Mass., son of a prominent hotel man, and a bandit said to have been Chapman, were interrupted in the burglary of the store of Davidson & Leventhal on Main street, New Britain, early on a Sunday morning. Shean was captured, but his accomplice engaged in a pistol battle with the police, making his escape after Patrolman Skelly had fallen, fatally wounded.

Following Chapman's escape from Atlanta, local State detectives were on the alert in the hope the bandit would return to Massachusetts and fall into their clutches. Their confidence was somewhat shaken when, following the New Britain shooting, Shean declared he and Chapman had lived together for some time in a Springfield hotel.

LYNN HERMIT NEAR DEATH IN HOSPITAL

Abel Hodgon, forty-nine-year-old hermit, who was found unconscious on the floor of his shack at No. 1023 Western avenue, Lynn, is battling for his life at Lynn Hospital.

Hogdon was found by Patrolman Murphy and Doyle. His face and hands were frost bitten and he was unconscious from exposure. There was fuel in the shack but apparently the recluse was too ill and weak to build a fire.

Amateurs to Race Friday at Newport, N. H., Event.

Newport, N. H., Jan. 19.—Fifty sled dogs, making up eight teams, were headed for here today to take part in the greatest amateur dog sled race ever held, which will occur Friday.

Several women, including Clara E. Smith, Caryl Peabody and Florence L. Clark have entered teams, the latter coming through the White Mountains from West Milan, a distance of 182 miles.

A. T. Walden, with his famous dogs from Wonalancet, headed by Chinook, will lead teams driven by H. H. Stearns, Jr., Walter Channing, Hiram P. Mason, Clara Smith and Caryl Peabody. The Meredith team comes up from Winchendon, where it has been giving an exhibition.

LAWSON WINS FIVE MILLION

Cleans Up Huge Sum In One Day by Gambling in Bethlehem Steel

Back in the Trinity campaign, Tom Lawson, in a single day from sun to sun, maced $5,000,000 out of the eager lambs to his own profit.

Now, with the war clouds casting black shadows over all Europe in the great tragedy of the World War, he repeated his $5,000,000 trick from sun to sun, this time in Bethlehem Steel.

Perhaps no other single individual unaided has succeeded in such a double garnering as this in all the world's history of stock gambling. But Lawson was King of Manipulators and to the King of the Realm is delivered the spoils.

Gambling was his forte—if swinging the market in one's own way and playing [illegible] almost certain knowledge of the outcome, can be called gambling—but the risible feature was that while Lawson himself gambled, he looked askance upon gambling by others.

STOP "CRAPSHOOTING."

One day he walked unexpectedly into the State street offices and surprised several clerks in the engrossing pastime known, among other names, as "rolling the bones."

A choleric hue dyed his face and he sputtered and fumed for seconds before he could find utterance to voice his rage.

Then in a burst of anger, he roared:

"I won't allow gambling in my office. Any gambling conducted in this office will be done by me—and that goes forever and the day after."

EASY COME, EASY GO.

He swung into his own sanctum and the clerks were quick to return to their places. For the balance of the day there was not a Lawson worker who would not have received "A" on his report card for application and deportment, had report cards been issued by the master.

Money made as easily as that coined by Tom Lawson went almost as easily and in devious ways.

Always in the State street and Young's Hotel offices there was a specified amount of cash on hand for luckless wayfarers who might seek his alms.

This cash account was termed by his workers, "the hoboes' mite," and it was doled out to all that might seek it.

During the war and the Christmas season a "bo" wandered into the Lawson office and begged for aid. Lawson was out, so the visitor was sent in to the secretary.

It was the day before Christmas, the annual day for the distribution of Lawson's Christmas money to his

HUB FANS INDIGNANT OVER PITTSBURGH HOCKEY METHO

B. A. A. SIX ROUGHLY USED

Indignation over the high-handed manner in which the United States Amateur Hockey league is being conducted by Pittsburgh executives was heard on all sides in this city today after athletic followers had got a glimpse of B. A. A. sextet back after two BATTLES with the Hornets in the "Smoky City."

Leo Hughes

Every member of the Unicorn team reached town badly battered and bruised and told almost unbelievable stories of roughness in the contests by which the Hornets, winning twice, displaced the Back Bay team on the top of the heap in the Eastern group.

All this added to the fact that two members of the local team had to be left behind in the hospital. Leo Hughes, with his right eye out and doctors fighting to save the sight of the other, and Howell Van Gerbig, suffering from severe face cuts, greatly aroused local followers and resulted in Vice-President George V. Brown of the U. S. A. H. L., declaring that any future acts of roughness in amateur hockey matches will be severely punished.

BROWN'S ULTIMATUM.

Brown's ultimatum also affects college teams. Any team, club or college, that persists in rough play after members of the team have been disqualified will be barred from playing on the Arena rink, and umpires who show that they can't control games will be dismissed.

Brown's edict is all very fine as far as it goes but unfortunately, and through no account of his, it doesn't go far enough.

He can be relied upon to keep the game clean at the Arena but how about the games at Pittsburgh?

Brown is vice president of the league and that gives him command of the Eastern group teams. Does he have it? Perhaps everywhere else, but not in Pittsburgh.

William S. Haddock and Roy D. Schooly, president and secretary, respectfully, and about every thing they care to be in the league are supposed to watch out for the Western group teams in the circuit, but they have their headquarters in Pittsburgh and control the games in that city both in the Eastern and Western groups.

So as to be sure to have their finger in the pie in both divisions they saw to it that Pittsburgh was represented in each, the Hornets in the Eastern and the Yellow Jackets in the Western groups, respectively.

Neither Haddock or Schooly have had anything to say about the disgraceful happening in that city Friday and Saturday evening. Of course not; Pittsburgh won and went into the lead.

ALL FOR PITTSBURGH.

A striking example of the extent the referees in that city go to insure a Pittsburgh victory was given Friday evening when Hughes, after receiving the injury which resulted in the loss of his eye, was sent to the penalty box for roughness.

As long as such actions are countenanced by the officials of the league in their home city, fans in other parts of the circuit are going to sour on the game despite the attempts of men like George V. Brown to clean up the sport.

Neither the local hockey teams nor the fans have any desire to have the Pittsburg teams, composed of imported Canadian players, included in the circuit unless Haddock and Schooley guarantee that invading teams get an even break there.

And they would be even more satisfied if some real sports took the game out of the hands of the Pittsgurgh Czas and started it upon a new basis so as each team would be able to travel from city to city without fearing that it might return home with some of the members maimed for life.

Pittsburg, Jan. 19.—Leo Hughes, wing on the Boston A. A. who lost an eye as a result of an injury sustained in the Friday night clash with the Pittsburg Hornets, vindicated Joe Sills of the Hornets of all blame for the injury.

Mrs. Hughes, mother of the stricken player, was today at his bedside. She was met at the station by President Schooley of Pittsburg.

Hockey fans are due to witness one of the best week's programs ever arranged at the Arena this week with an assortment of college, club, amateur and professional puck chasers.

Tonight's game between the Berlin, N. H., club and the Maples will undoubtedly furnish thrills galore as well as good hockey. The "Flying Frenchmen," as they are commonly called, always are accompanied by about 200 rooters, and tonight will be no exception.

The professional game, usually played on Monday night, will be played on Tuesday night hereafter. Montreal, with its brilliant array of stars, will meet the Bruins, who are gaining favor with the fans at every game. With Stuart, Herberts, Hitchman and Goalie Stewart at their best, hockey followers feel sure the Bruins will break the winning column regularly from now on.

The Berlin crowd, accustomed to playing outdoors, feel they can play a faster game on the indoor rink. They will meet the B. A. A. sextet on Wednesday night.

Thursday is a silent night as far as hockey is concerned, but the game will come back with a vengeance on Friday when the B. A. A. plays the Maples in an amateur league game. Those who remember the last game between these teams will flock to the Arena, as that game furnished some of the best and roughest hockey seen around these parts.

The finale on Saturday night will see another of the "Big Three" series when Harvard and Princeton meet. These games always are colorful, not because of the fact that a good deal of cheering is done, but because of the calibre of hockey displayed by these teams. The result will go a long way to determine the intercollegiate championship as both have remarkable teams.

JEM DRISCOLL, VETERAN BOXER, IS DYING

Cardiff, Wales, Jan. 19.—Jem Driscoll, one of the greatest featherweight boxers of all time, is critically ill with pneumonia, it developed here today. The former pugilist is fighting the greatest battle of his career, a fight for his life, and attending physicians are grave over the outcome.

GEORGETOWN RUNNERS IN 'CASEY' GAMES

Lloyd Hahn of the B. A. A. is the first entry announced for the K. of C. mile for the James M. Curley trophy, featuring the fourth annual indoor games of the Knights of Columbus, February 7, in Mechanics Hall.

The Unicorn star won the event last year and with Joie Ray of the Illinois A. C., and Pat Mahoney of Boston College, has equal claim to the trophy, which must be won three times by a representative of some club or college before it becomes the permanent possession of the organization.

It has also been announced that the Georgetown University track stars will be on hand for the games, including George Marsters, Eddie Brooks, Paul Herlihy, Jimmy Burgess, George Kinnaly, Andy Caffrey, Eddie Sullivan and Tony Plansky.

Most of the lads have national reputations. Very likely the Georgetown mile team which will contest for its third and final leg on the William Cardinal O'Connell trophy, emblematic of the Catholic College championship, will be made up of Archer, Kinnaly, Herlihy and Burgess.

Tickets for the game will go on sale tomorrow at James W. Brine's, Wright & Ditson's, the Horace Partridge Company and the State headquarters of the Knights of Columbus on Massachusetts avenue. Popular prices will prevail.

Inside Golf

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 81 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

It is a rather common practice for golfers to grasp the shaft of the wood club at the extreme butt end of the leather. Often the left hand is half an inch or so beyond the end of the leather, so determined is the player to get the longest possible hold. Grasping the shaft in this manner throws the club slightly out of balance. To so grasp it successively the player must know how to delay his timing some to compensate for the increased pull which the clubhead will exert. It would be better practice to grasp the leather farther down the shaft instead of at the butt end. The best position for the hands is always found at about the centre of the leather.

RAY COLLINS NAMED VERMONT COACH

Burlington, Vt., Jan. 17.—Ray W. Collins of Colchester, former Red Sox pitcher, has been chosen baseball coach at the University of Vermont for the 1925 season, according to announcement given out by the athletic council.

DUNDEE CALLED BY SICKNESS, HE RADIOS

Paris, Jan. 19.—Johnny Dundee, resigned bantamweight world champion, answered the critics accusing him of breach of contract in a wireless message to International News Service today from aboard the liner Paris:

"Serious illness in my family," Dundee radioed. "They cabled me to come home at once. My wife sick and upset about conditions at home and insisted we go together. Will return and fight Bretonnel or any other man.

(Signed) "JOHNNY DUNDEE."

Holdsworth Against Boxing Law Changes

Attorney Medley T. Holdsworth of Lynn, known as the "father of the Massachusetts boxing law," is opposed to the changes suggested in the present law, and will appear against them.

"The main changes that are needed in the present law," says Holdsworth, "deal with the fees charged by the commission. I think it is unfair to charge both the preliminary boy and the boxer who makes thousands of dollars a year the same fee of $25.

"I also believe the salaries of the commissioners should be reduced to $1,000 per year. The commissioners are giving too much time to boxing. If they met once a week, placed faith in the referees to properly handle the fights and did not interfere too much with the boxing bouts and referees, there would be more satisfaction.

He opposes giving Commissioner Foote the $2,000 raise.

He opposes the elimination of judges and states that competent referees should act as judges at all bouts. He suggests keeping the boxing commissioners and deputies away from the ringside.

He ridicules the clause relative to smoking at amateur bouts.

"The most ridiculous suggestion of all is the one that deals with no-decisions in bouts eight rounds or over," he stated.

Binckley Signs to Meet Indian in One-Fall Match

Frank Yusko, Lithuanian heavyweight champion and conqueror of Stasiak, will receive a real test when he meets Joe Malcewicz at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night.

In meeting Malcewicz Yusko opposes a man just as good as Stasiak, or at least in the same class with him. Should he beat the army sergeant he will be hailed as the goods. The fact that all the topnotchers have been dodging Malcewicz for the past four years adds all the more credit to Yusko for his willingness to meet him.

Cliff Binckley, who went down to defeat before the body scissors of Leone Lobriola last week, was not injured to the extent that was at first thought.

The wind was knocked out of him and his ribs were stiff and sore. After a good massage he left a lot better and has signed to wrestle a one-fall semi-final with Chief Montour on Thursday night.

In the opening bout of the evening Frank Dutcher will meet Frank Kasack, who hails from Mansfield, Ct. It will be a one-fall match.

SPORT BROADCAST

THE GREAT NURMI

Where will Nurmi stop?

With eight world's records already appended to his belt since his introduction to indoor foot racing in this country, there seems to be no end to his powers for shattering marks, some of which have graced the record books for years.

Paavo Nurmi

With ten days' rest, the great Finn will try to stretch his mark to ten when he tries for new records for two-thirds and three-quarters of a mile at the Millrose A. A. games in New York on the evenings of January 27 and 28.

* * *

One thing in Nurmi's favor is that the promoters are very kind in granting any request that he may ask. There has been a lot of juggling of distances to satisfy the great runner, as he does not seem eager to run the same distance twice. A new mark in every race is his motto.

* * *

TO SUIT HIS TASTE

If Nurmi comes to Boston to take part in the B. A. A. games on January 31, there is no doubt that a special race will be arranged to suit his taste. The Unicorn officials would like to have him in the Hunter Mile, but if the Finn wants something different it is more than likely that the Back Bay organization will accede to his wishes.

* * *

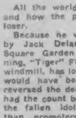
All the world loves a winner and how the promoters hate a loser.

Because he was knocked out by Jack Delaney at Madison Square Garden the other evening, "Tiger" Flowers, the negro windmill, has lost two bouts that would have been his had fate reversed the decision. No sooner had the count been finished over the fallen idol of the negroes than promoters in Allentown, Pa., and Newark cancelled bouts in which Flowers was to have appeared. He was to meet Allentown Joe Gans in the former city tonight and Ted Moore, the Englishman, at Newark, Feb. 2.

* * *

A GIGANTIC TASK

Little Helen Wainwright, the American Olympic swimmer, is going to try to swim the English Channel next Summer—something no woman has yet been able to accomplish. She will rely on her speed to beat the changing tides and treacherous waters of the Channel. Enrique Tirabocchi, the Argentine, did it this way in 1923. He accomplished his task in 16 hours and 33 minutes and set a new record in doing so. It is doubtful if he would have got through without speed.



Helen Wainwright

* * *

Tirabocchi is one of the four humans that have swam the Channel. The others were Henry F. Sullivan of Lowell, who did it in the same month as the Argentine; the Englishman, Captain Mathew Webb, the first to accomplish it in 1875, and Thomas W. Burgess, another Englishman, who was successful in 1911. Many other men and a few women have tried the swim but in vain.

SOX DEPENDS ON YOUTH

Bob Quinn must be satisfied that some of his young pitchers are coming through to share the burden with Howard Ehmke and Alex Ferguson in the next Red Sox campaign. Bill Piercey has been let go to Salt Lake City. He was rated as one of the regulars last season. And the fact that the Boston prexy asked waivers on Jack Quinn proves that he is not placing any too much dependence in that veteran piece of pitching bric-a-brac. The natural conclusion then is that he is placing his faith in the youngsters.

C. A. A. SIGNS WILSON AND TIGER FLOWERS

Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga., colored middleweight, and Johnny Wilson, have signed for a 10-round fight at the Commercial A. C. February 26, according to Eddie Mack, matchmaker of the club.

Flowers is now in Atlanta on a short visit to his family, after which he will return here and go into training.

RITOLA DEFIES NURMI OVER 10,000 METRES

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

New York, Jan. 17.—Barring the use of a first-class horse whip the only possible way to give Paavo Nurmi a beating was uncovered today with a defi from Willie Ritola for a meeting at 10,000 meters, which happens to be Ritola's distance to the literal fraction of an inch.

The [illegible], it seems, aired his views on the subject, following his notable effort in breaking the world's record for five miles, on Saturday night, and the immediate reaction of officials of the Finnish American A. C. was to open negotiations for the big race.

RITOLA'S VIEWS

"I don't want to take anything away from Nurmi's wonderful performance since coming to this country," [illegible] said in effect, "but I [illegible] that I have been given none the best of it in meeting him in comparatively short races. I knew I didn't have a chance when I went [illegible] at 3000 meters at the [illegible] games. [illegible] look[illegible] give Nurmi all he [illegible] [illegible] It is the one distance [illegible] seconds, which is quite a few. Where was Nurmi?" Therein rests the plot.

NO BROTHER ACT.

According to inside information given [illegible] the time [illegible] before he [illegible] and asked him to take matters [illegible] good of the team. He [illegible] to do a brother act in [illegible] come down to the tape together.

[illegible] "I'm going to [illegible] if you can beat me, [illegible]. But if I can beat you I'm going to do it."

The [illegible] between the two began with that moment. Nurmi withdrew from the race altogether [illegible] the honors to Ritola and [illegible]. They lapped their field [illegible] three times on a 500-metre track and [illegible] burned out.

NURMI HAS BACKERS

Whether Nurmi, great as he is, could have beaten Ritola in that race is a question that has had no solution to this day. The writer [illegible]

SHEVLIN RISKS TITLE AGAINST FLYNN TONIGHT

The Casino A. C. of Lynn will stage its first legitimate New England championship fight [illegible] Paddy Flynn of Everett [illegible] faces Eddie Shevlin, New England welterweight [illegible].

Flynn is known as [illegible] real rough [illegible] of the [illegible] game. Three weeks ago [illegible] made the going so rough for [illegible] Car[illegible] that the game [illegible] was compelled [illegible] five rounds.

In his last Boston appearance Shevlin won the decision from [illegible] Lowery and gave the tough Scotch [illegible] a wicked body licking.

The fact that Shevlin will have to defend his title in [illegible] the fate of the [illegible] aroused as no other [illegible]. The friends of [illegible] Everett are planning to [illegible] large numbers and they are confident that Paddy will be able to turn a trick that Young Kloby, Paul Doyle, Nate Seikel and Tansy Norton failed to perform.

As Eddie Shevlin has been doing his training at Dartmouth College for this match he can be expected to be in the very best of condition.

In the semi-final of eight rounds, Young Ross of Lynn will meet Johnny Moore of the North End for the third time. The first time these boys met Moore [illegible] to be fattened [illegible] in their second meeting. This [illegible] should provide fireworks.

DARTMOUTH LEADS BASKETBALL LEAGUE

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.)—Three contests which will go far toward determining the [illegible] Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League this season will be played this week.

Tomorrow night, Dartmouth will attempt to hold its present advantage by defeating [illegible] second game at New [illegible] and Princeton [illegible].

Dartmouth leads the league by [illegible] won the two games [illegible] played and Princeton is second by virtue of a [illegible] victory.

PARIS SENDS NEW IDEAS

"It's mighty raw on the waterfront"

Pratt and Light Streets, if you know the Baltimore waterfront, means a bitter-cold, wind-swept corner in winter.

No one knows it better than the Mounted Policeman whose "beat" keeps him around there. Most of us can duck indoors when things get raw outside but a Policeman must stick to his post!

Officer Louis F. Zulauf rides that section back and forth every day. His many decorations for exceptional bravery show he's not one to flinch at such a trifling matter as the weather.

But everybody gets coughs. One almost had him laid up recently. Then REM—but let him tell it:

> "We policemen often get coughs because weather doesn't mean anything to us. We must be out in all kinds. My post is down near the Ericsson Line. It's usually pretty raw down there.
>
> "REM saved me from laying off a couple of days recently. I had caught a heck of a cough during the recent sloppy spell and it looked as if 'Dick' and I were due to be off our 'beat' for a while.
>
> "I couldn't stop this cough with anything - it didn't let up day or night.
>
> "Then I saw REM in a drug store window and I thought I'd give it a try-out. It relieved me like magic. Now I wouldn't think of using anything else for a cough."

REM's quick action in so many cases is largely due to a special ingredient—effective, harmless—not found in ordinary cough syrups. Clinging to your throat as it is swallowed, REM quickly begins its work of quieting your cough.

No Opiates in REM. And it's pleasant to take.

Ask your Druggist for REM—the blue package with the round orange label. You can have your money back if you want it—but you won't!

Introductory size bottle, only 60c

Bobbie and His Pa

By William F. Kirk

MA was reading a story last nite about a gent wich loved a woman all her life & all his life & he nevver got a chanct to marry her & she never got a chanct to marry him & he went to his deth without her.

I think that is terribul sad, sed Ma. The poor man.

It was kind of tuff, sed Pa, but maybe if thay was married thay wud be like lots of married cuppels, sed Pa, and not be reely happy. Distant feelds are green, sed Pa.

What do you meen by that speech? sed Ma.

Nothing about you, deerest, sed Pa. I am vary thankful that I didn't haf to wait for you like that gent you are reeding about, sed Pa. The minnit I made up my mind to marry you, sed Pa, you & yure father & mother had yure minds made up too, sed Pa.

Deer me, is that so? sed Ma. Is that so?

Glanst back acrost them distant years, sed Pa, & you will remember well enuff, sed Pa. But as I sed beefoar, I am glad I didn't haf to wait, sed Pa. I was crazy about you then, sed Pa.

Then, sed Ma, then? How about now? sed Ma.

Well, sed Pa, I am moar sedate now, & older, sed Pa, & too wise to be crazy about no dame, sed Pa. Yung men git foolish noshuns, sed Pa. Thay think thay wud die if thay cuddent have the wife thay want, & all that sort of bunk, sed Pa.

Bunk, sed Ma. Bunk?

Well, in a way it is [illegible], sed Pa. Howevver [illegible] if one is far away from one he loves he can find sum consolashun sumwares, sed Pa.

Oh, he can, can he? sed Ma.

I suppose so, sed Pa. I nevver had to try it, of course, sed Pa, kind of quick. I always had you, evver since I was a vary yung gent out of my teens, sed Pa.

You spoak a trewth a minnit ago jest the saim, sed Ma. A man can always find consolashun sumwares, sed Ma. But a woman loves only onst, sed Ma.

I doant know, sed Pa. You cuddent maik anybody beleeve that out in Reeno, sed Pa.

Ware is it, Reno? I sed.

It is a plaice ware broaken harts are spliced, Bobbie, sed Pa. I hoap you will nevver haf to go thare, Bobbie, sed Pa.

I aint nevver going to haf no broaken hart I sed. My hart is brite & happy & it will always be that way, life is too short to git a broaken hart, I sed.

I [illegible] peepul are silly speeking about broaken harts, I bet nobody nevver seen a broaken hart, our teecher sed the hart was a mussel & I doant see how hard luck can brake a mussel, I will now close.

DAILY SHORT STORY

THE GOD OF CHA

By Bertha R. McDo

T[illegible] the spirit of a gambler and grew up a bond devotee to the god of chance.

It was his keenest delight to trade anything and everything "sight unseen", make bets with any one who would listen to him, [illegible] parties with the newsboys or shoot craps with the corner bootblack.

It mattered not to Tommy that he was over more often than otherwise. That only fired him with greater enthusiasm. It was the uncertainty which seemed to intrigue him. He was ready to take a chance on anything, whether the outcome was due to materialize this year or a decade hence.

Worried His Mother

It worried his widowed mother—this youthful dealing in futures. The fact that they had plenty of money did not lessen her anxiety. It was the moral, the spiritual side which concerned her, not the material, for Mrs. [illegible] could see where all this was apt to lead. Although Tom [illegible] when she tried [illegible] about this one thing, [illegible] at her concern.

"Why, Mums," he would say, "[illegible] harm in a fellow taking a sporting chance now and then."

"If you confined your activities to an occasional sporting chance, I would not complain, son", his mother would answer, "but it is [illegible] that worries me."

Convinced that this was one point upon which his otherwise well informed mother was ignorant, Tom went his merry way: a little more circumspect perhaps as to secrecy of movement, but continuing regularly to [illegible] at the altars of the god of chance, his precious young manhood.

The day he gave up five perfectly good dollars at an auction sale of unclaimed packages, held by a local express agent and drew the magnificent sum of six balls of darning wool, everybody thought Tommy would be emancipated.

Huge Joke

Not Tommy. To him, the whole affair was a huge joke. It filled him with an unquenchable curiosity concerning those ownerless bundles that hailed from here, there and everywhere.

For two years he never missed an express auction and during the entire time, the most valuable thing he ever drew, "sight unseen", was a box containing a dozen packs of fine, gilt-edged playing cards, more or less valuable when it came to dollars and cents, but a detriment and curse, so far as Tom Bradley personally was concerned.

He began by playing solitaire with them, first one pack and then another. Then he laid out several games and pitted them against each [illegible] It was but a step from this to placing some friend behind each game, persuading each to back his particular game with a nickle or a dime and lo—before he realized what was happening, Tommy was a full fledged gambler.

In a short time he was plying roulette wheels, playing the races, but more often, sitting in pool rooms playing poker with men who were rapidly corrupting his morals, while they depleted his pocket-book.

He was rudely awakened to the fact that his own self-respect was at a very low ebb when he met Diana Ripley. He had only known her for a few weeks when he found himself wishing that he might report a violent interest in golf, tennis, politics, radio, settlement work, better babies—anything more healthful than a game of cards in a smoke-filled pool room.

Appeals to Best

Diana was the sort of a girl who appeals to the best there is in a man. She was small, daintily formed, with laughing violet eyes and a smile that was a combination of the sun bursting through a cloud and the sparkle of hoar frost in early Autumn.

Somehow, after Diana found out about the cards and saw fit to hold the mirror of life before his gaze, revealing perfectly, a picture of himself as he really was, then did not resent or belittle the transaction as he had his mother's earlier interferences. He listened; more than that, he heeded.

In due course of events, Tom and Diana became engaged, after his sworn promise never to touch a card again as long as he lived. Two months of clean living, regular hours and freedom from smoke-filled, poorly ventilated rooms, made a new man of Tom. He was beginning to wonder how he ever could have been so absorbed in cards, when he and Diana were invited to a week-end house party.

For some reason unknown to Tom, his sweetheart was very much averse to going, but he finally persuaded her to accompany him, being reminded that if they went, she expected him to keep his promise about card playing, even to the ever popular bridge.

Flesh Is Weak

Alas, too often the spirit is willing where the flesh is weak. They hadn't been at Valley Lake an hour, before Tom had run across two fellows who were cronies of his in the days when they were all habitues of Dapper Dan's place.

It was easy enough to find a secluded nook where they could play cards unmolested. And they might have gotten by with it, had it not been for the vague uneasiness which filled the heart of Diana when she first missed Tom from the gathering.

How she managed to find them is her secret. Find them she did and much to Tom's bewilderment and amazement, for he hadn't the slightest idea she knew one card from another, insisted, jovially, upon sitting in the game. There was something in the glint which shone in Diana's eyes that froze the objection on Tom's lips. The others, afraid of being openly denounced to their hostess, also remained silent.

They played stud poker. Diana Ripley never stopped until she had won every cent the three men had on their persons, not to mention their I. O. U.s for large additional sums. Furthermore, she insisted upon leaving Valley Lake at once and Tom, both crestfallen and bitterly angry, could not or would not allow her to go alone.

Tom Was Sullen

In town, they parted at her door, Diana inwardly amused, Tom sullen and silent. The next day she sent for him. Tom went, prepared to be given his everlasting conge. It was a most bewitching Diana who met him at the door and led him to the cool, quiet screened porch.

"Tommy," she began, as soon as she had seated him in the most comfortable chair the porch afforded. "I have a story to tell you. When I'm through, it rests entirely with you whether we go a[illegible] take up our lives [illegible]

"I had one of the [illegible] that ever lived, [illegible] ting sin. He was a [illegible] As a child he taught [illegible] cards, but I grew to [illegible] sight of one because [illegible] they brought into our [illegible] home. When I became [illegible] to think of men as [illegible] as fathers, I swore I [illegible] marry a man who gamb[illegible]

"I love you dearly—[illegible] give you up without [illegible] you see the error of [illegible] was afraid of some [illegible] happened—that is why I [illegible] to go to Valley Lake [illegible] with a marked deck of [illegible] pocket: why I insisted [illegible] with you.

"I overheard [illegible] plotting to cheat you [illegible] you had and I knew I [illegible] you—perhaps—[illegible] Here's your money, [illegible] ny. What I won [illegible] two unprincipled [illegible] give to charity.

The Verdict

"Well—what's the [illegible] guess or—"

"Forgiveness," [illegible] hoarsely. "Forgiveness [illegible] but not forgetfulness [illegible] part is this [illegible] crushed to carry [illegible] enough to break [illegible] but I've had my [illegible] had my lesson."

We stopped. How to eat without anything to drink I did not know. [illegible] fore he spread it to us he motioned us to wait a moment. Unstrapping his waterbag from his belt, he opened it. "What use?" I thought.

But there was use and good use for [illegible] thank goodness I discovered [illegible]

"I should say so. You know these Chaoma baboons have the faculty for telling where water is in the ground. The natives use them for that purpose," replied Bunny.

Washington is holding a conference of its representatives from all parts of the country, and their reports are nearly all most encouraging.

General Motors sold more automobiles in December than in November.

There are probably more visiting buyers in New York today than ever before.

Cotton consumption, the latest figures reveal, is increasing and exports during the last three months broke all records, so that the outlook for this commodity would appear to be distinctly hopeful notwithstanding calculations that there will be enough of the staple to go round.

The steel industry continues to expand operations and the price trend is distinctly upwards.

Index numbers continue to record an advance in the general price level. Last week brought sixty-one advances and only nineteen declines.

December exports and imports both were heavy, and there is every prospect that our foreign trade will increase substantially this year now that so much American capital is being raised here by foreign, particularly European, borrowers.

Among other stocks held by Mr. Reed I am told there is a block of 100,000 shares of American Can. If the heirs have to market any such amount of Can as this they will have to exercise more than usual care or and ability to obtain anything like the present market price for it.

It does not surprise the writer that annual count of the passengers who move in and out of the North Station over the Boston & Maine Railroad, just completed for 1924 shows a loss of 2,886,803 riders. Total for the twelve months was 27,717,242 passengers, comprising commuters and others. This compares with 30,604,045 in 1923.

For eleven months ending November 30, 1924, which are the latest figures for the road as a whole, aggregate number of revenue passengers was 36,418,318. The system totals for the same period in 1923 were 42,422,500 pay riders.

Commuter's fares have been unreasonably raised, in the opinion of many people, most of them former railroad patrons, who now travel—and take along co-workers—in low-priced automobiles. Then, too, passenger rates in general are so high as to offer little encouragement to travel.

It is likely that these conditions will be relieved as soon as those leading in the "comeback" of our New England railroads deem it possible. Reduced fares will be followed by increased travel.

REPLIES TO INVESTORS

UNITED FRUIT.

To A. P. P.—United Fruit is widely regarded as an exceptionally sound investment issue.

INVESTMENTS.

To R. E. R.—Diversity should be sought in investments. "Don't put all your eggs in one basket" is a good rule that applies also to speculation. It is obvious that, if all your speculative fund is put into solitary issues, you are bound eventually to be a loser.

BONDS.

To B. E. E.—Broadly speaking sound bonds should provide the basis for investment funds. It should be remembered that all bonds are not sound and that bonds have varying degrees of soundness.

SAFETY.

To R. T. G.—Liberty bonds are beyond question the world's safest investment security, though present yields may not be tempting for the small investor.

CALUMET & HECLA.

To O. O. P.—For the long pull, the writer does not believe the holders of Calumet & Hecla likely to meet with disappointment.

GOOD COPPERS.

To S. D. K.—Anaconda and Kennecott are considered good coppers. They are not the only ones, however.

WESTINGHOUSE.

To R. E. F.—Hold your Westinghouse. I would sell the oil as quickly as I could get in contact with my broker.

GOOD BROKER.

To T. F. C.—You have a good broker. There are a lot of good brokers right here in Boston, as I have repeatedly stated.

ADVICE.

To S. L. F.—The advice given one investor does not necessarily apply for another. Much depends upon individual circumstances.

GET RICH QUICK.

To S. L. P.—The chances for you to get rich quick in the stock market are small. You should be satisfied like other wise persons, with reasonable profits and not hold speculative stocks for the last fraction of the rise.

NEW HAVEN.

To S. D. D.—It is anybody's guess, of course, but the writer looks to see New Haven eventually sell higher.

Always his secretary besought him to clear up the stack of bills outstanding, but each time Lawson, with an impatient wave of his hand, would dismiss the subject. There was no arguing. Crossing Lawson meant a period of heavy acting and the use of virile, he-man words.

Then [illegible] the financier would have a sudden change of heart. He would ask for all the bills, call his secretary—and together they would figure interest at the prevailing money rate and the interest would be added to the various [illegible] of [illegible] business.

Checks would be made out forthwith, and by the end of the day every [illegible] of debt would be paid [illegible] interest, and the decks would be clean and ready for another batch.

Grip Left You a Bad Back?

ARE you getting over a cold or gr[illegible] only to find yourself a victim [illegible] backache? Are you suffering headaches too, dizzy spells, a dull, tired, worn-[illegible] feeling and annoying kidney irregularities? Then don't delay! Physicians agree that a vast number of the worst cases [illegible] kidney trouble are the result of germ diseases. In every infectious disease the system [illegible] alive with poisonous germs and bacteria. The kidneys are overwhelmed with the rush of new work; they break down, become congested, inflamed and diseased. Too often the real trouble is lost sight of until some dangerous kidney ailment sets in. If your kidneys are falling behind, don't wait for serious trouble. Begin using Doan's Pills today. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Boston Folks Found Relief:

MRS. GEORGIA WHIDDON, 35 Warren Ave., says: "I had a terrible backache and had to brace my hands on my back when I got out of bed. My kidneys acted too freely and pains in my head nearly drove me crazy. A couple boxes of Doan's Pills from Liggett's Drug Store cured me." (Statement given July 13, 1922.)

On October 4, 1923, Mrs. Whiddon added: "The cure Doan's Pills effected has been a lasting one."

FRANKLIN P. WEBER, prop. furniture store, 54 Webster St., residence 13 Meridian St., East Boston, says: "My back ached and every time I stooped a sharp catch in the small of my back made it hard to straighten. I couldn't rest at night, and mornings I was stiff and sore. My kidneys were disordered, too. Several boxes of Doan's Pills cured the trouble and I have had no return of it."

MRS. E. R. WILSON, 147 [illegible] South Boston, says: "A strain brought on kidney trouble, and I had a [illegible] dragging ache in my back all the [illegible] I tired quickly, and mornings [illegible] was awfully stiff. My kidneys were disordered, too. Doan's Pills from Liggett's Drug Store helped [illegible] away and three boxes cured me."

Every Druggist has Doan's. 60c a box.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bothers You, Begin Taking Jad Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water, you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

BRANDEGEE LAUDED IN SENATE EXERCISES

Washington, Jan. 19.—Ever faithful to American ideals, loyal to country and to conviction, the career of Frank B. Brandegee who represented Connecticut in the Senate since the days of Trumbull and Sherman declared Senator Joseph P. McLean today in a eulogy of his late colleague.

Many years ago a physician discovered it—

SOOTHING; healing Resinol Ointment. Since then doctors have been prescribing it widely for skin and scalp trouble, because they know that its unvarying quality, its gentle medication, and the success which attends its use are sufficient to insist on Resinol.

It seldom fails to give quick relief in all itching, burning skin troubles, because its soothing properties cause it to ease the irritation while healing the disorder.

Resinol Soap is a ready aid in treating skin troubles, and is a favorite for the toilet and bath with thousands who like its cleansing, refreshing lather.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bothers You, Begin Taking Jad Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

QUICK RELIEF FROM COSTIVENESS

Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache — torpid liver — constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

BOSTONIANS RETURN TO PALESTINE

Mrs. Annie Levine and Perez Satran Leave for Native Land

Palestine has reclaimed two Boston Jews—Mrs. Annie Levine of Dorchester and Perez Satran of Boston.

As the ardent hope and fond wish of every Jew is to return to his homeland to die in rest and peace among his countrymen, many are giving vent to their desire. It is estimated that 2,000 immigrate monthly into Palestine with a waiting list of 10,000 behind it.

Mrs. Levine is sailing tomorrow. At the home of her son, Bernard, No. 625 Warren street, Roxbury, she bid good-bye and farewell to a host of friends and relatives.

The West End Jews lose one of their most active Hebrew scholars in Satran, whose home was at all hours a harbor of shelter and information for Talmudic students. For many years he was supreme in West End orthodox circles.

A farewell reception was tendered him. He will leave January 29 for Palestine.

The newly elected officers and directors of the Congregation Hamidrash Hagodol, Crawford street, Roxbury, were installed amid fitting ceremonies by Rabbi Louis Epstein of the synagogue.

The administrative executives are Louis H. Steinberg, president; S. Bernstein, vice-president; Samuel Rosenberg, secretary, and A. H. Morrison, treasurer. They will serve during the year.

The exercises were followed by a musical program and a banquet. George Alpert, assistant district attorney, was the principal speaker. Samuel Rosenberg was in charge.

Of keen interest to Bostonians is the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods which is convening in conjunction with the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods now in St. Louis, Mo.

* * *

It is rumored that Frederic Wingersky, former president of the Brotherhood of Temple Ohabei Shalom, Park street, Boston, may be the choice for president of the national federation.

The convention ends Wednesday.

Contributions to Keren Hayesod are once more in order. Interupted by the half a million drive of the Federated Jewish Charities, requests for finances from this organization had to be suspended temporarily.

The purpose of Keren Hayesod is purely Zionistic. It wants to rebuild Palestine. Solicited funds in Boston should come up to the $100,000 mark. To date subscriptions for $70,000 have been collected by the various teams and captains of trade teams.

A women's committee has been formed to "clean up," financially speaking, the remains of the residential and business districts left by the workers. Judging from the manifested enthusiasm at a tea of the women workers, their follow up campaign should bellow aloud in dollars and cents.

S. H. Waldstein, Boston, is chairman of the drive.

Abraham Cahan, editor of the New York Jewish Daily Forward, addressed a Boston audience for the first time in the Ford Hall Forum on "Are We Taking Literature Seriously Enough?"

The Jewish Anti-Tuberculosis Association will give a series of concerts and musical entertainments to the patients at the Boston Sanitoria. The first of these concerts will be given the latter part of the month, it is expected.

Mrs. B. Bunshaft and Mrs. D. Small, members of the visiting committee, are arranging the concerts.

The fortieth anniversary celebration of the First Boston Austrian-Hungarian Association will be held in Paul Revere Hall tomorrow night. Joseph White, chairman, is in charge.

A banquet, entertainment and dance will be given to enable the young sons and daughters of the members who have been invited to enjoy themselves.

Mrs. Mary Northend addressed the Council of Jewish Women in the vestry of Temple Israel, Commonwealth avenue, today, on "The Home One Dreams Of."

CLINTON A. C. HOLDS 4th ANNUAL DANCE TONIGHT

The fourth annual dance of the Clinton A. C. of Roxbury will be held tonight at Intercolonial Hall, No. 214 Dudley street, Roxbury. Among the features will be an exhibition by Tenney and Allen of Bowery and Apache dancing. The committee in charge is: J. E. Connors, chairman; T. L. Lynch, J. B. Zamagni, F. McLean, F. Murphy and J. Glynn, assisted by the Misses W. Monahan, C. Connors, N. Strong, E. Morrison, L. Domo and M. Connors.

If This Were Gold

It Would Upset the World's Finance

This block of granite is said to be the biggest stone ever quarried.

This great stone, forty feet high, contains 100,000 cubic feet of solid granite. Taken from Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., it is said to be the largest solid rock ever quarried. It isn't the LONGEST, of course. Stones much longer had been quarried thousands of years ago in Egypt. And that Egyptian work is all the more marvelous considering that they lack our modern cutting machinery, driven by electricity or compressed air, and all our modern scientific methods.

An interesting thought in connection with this huge rock is this: SUPPOSE THIS ROCK WERE MADE OF SOLID GOLD, INSTEAD OF SOLID GRANITE?

Do you realize what a change that would make in the business, in the money matters and in the credits of the world?

A hundred thousand cubic feet of gold would upset all the bankers and all the gold currencies on earth. Unless some great nation possessed the big lump of gold and promised not to issue it as money, the world's values would be upset.

A gold dollar would be worth only a fraction of its present value. You would have learned political economists suggesting that the only thing to do would be to sink this lump of gold at the bottom of the ocean, and thus restore money values to their natural condition.

If men ever carry out their plan and dig a hole thirty miles deep or more down into the earth, it is just possible that they might find gold in such quantities as this. Gold tends to go downward, it is heavier than a majority of the other metals, much heavier than iron, silver, copper.

If you had a lump of gold as big as this, you could buy out Henry Ford—if he would sell, which he wouldn't.

With that much gold you could go to Monte Carlo and make a fool of yourself, gambling steadily, betting "the limit" all the rest of your life. If you lost every bet, at the end of the year you would not have begun to use up your income.

Or if you happened to have brains, you could use this lump of gold, assuming that its money value wouldn't be destroyed by the mere fact of its discovery, to irrigate deserts in the West, harness up the power of the Colorado River, which the richest nation on earth hasn't the brains or the will to harness.

You could wipe out slums in big cities, build and endow reasonable priced apartments for the millions that are now at the mercy of the highest price obtainable by the lowest kind of a landlord.

There is great power in gold, but the power is there only because human beings are willing that it should be there.

They call gold their money, therefore, it will BUY anything and persuade men to do anything. Once hides of animals were used as money. The savages used shells for money, the Indians used their wampum—beads strung together. Many elements are more rare than gold.

Also, if you owned this gigantic lump of gold, and you found yourself alone on a desert island with no food or water, you would gladly exchange the whole lump for one quart of water, and one tenderloin steak. Therefore everything is comparative. Also, if the old descriptions of hell are true, and if you found yourself down there with this lump of gold—it would be soon melted, of course—you would give it too gladly for one single drop of water.

The thing to do is not to worry about gold, but to work, try to do something worth while, and be content with enough of the gold to keep you from being any other man's slave, and compelled to obey his orders.

Useful work and independence. Those are what we need. Not unnecessary gold to worry or make fools of us.

Which Streets for Parades?

Merchants Want No More of Them Down-Town

Boston merchants wisely select a season when there is no big parade on the program as a good time to discuss barring all future parades from down-town streets.

"When a parade is held on these narrow down-town streets," the business men say, "traffic in other parts of the city becomes more or less demoralized, the public is greatly inconvenienced and business is paralyzed before, during and after the marching.

"This means large losses to business men as well as to employes who work on commission."

The Retail Trade Division, asking the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to take action, disavows opposition to parades as such. It suggests that they be held on wide streets, "like Commonwealth Avenue."

The subject has been brought into the open and this is the time to come to an agreement.

Most of us like parades. None of us would wilfully injure the business establishments which employ thousands and serve tens of thousands.

SHALL parades be barred from down-town streets?

The subject is open for discussion.

Let discussion be followed by action.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

BY HELEN ROWLAND

HEAR now, the Love Song of a Bride, my Daughter, which she chanteth in her heart.

Oh, be my Friend, Beloved. For, surely, in the trials and problems of married life, if EVER doth a woman need a FRIEND!

Helen Rowland

I pray thee, do not set me upon a pedestal and endow me with all the virtues of a saint—and then expect me to live UP to them. For, lo, pedestals are exceedingly slippery; and it is inspiring to be worshipped blindly, but it is more comforting to be understood.

And to keep a man "blinded" forever is a life-work!

Be my Friend Beloved! Cover me not with illusions, nor invest me with all the charms of Circe and the Lorelei. For, I am no "siren"! And infatuation, like wind, is exhilarating for the moment—but leaveth always the headache and the heartache.

Be my Friend, Beloved! Cherish me not as a fragile flower, neither as a piece of bric-a-brac.

For chivalry is beautiful, but comradeship is more satisfying. Take me by the hand and let us walk together, play together, work together, climb together to the Summit of Life; and then, together, limp down the hill, still keeping step, through the sunset of the years.

Be my Friend, Beloved! Understand me—do not coddle me, as thou wouldst a child and a half-wit. Respect me, even as I respect thee.

For this is the foundation-rock of friendship!

Love me for those few charms, and virtues, and talents which I possess—but do not ask me to grow WINGS.

Help me to live up to my best and highest—but do not ask me to live up to Impossible Ideal!

For, marriage may be a refinery—but it is not a reformatory!

Be my Friend, Beloved—not my worshipper, my adorer, my guardian, my judge, my critic, my overseer, my slave nor my ruler!

Be my Friend, Beloved!

This is all I ask—but it is no LITTLE thing.

SALAH!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHIRLING, twirling, over the stage she goes, light as the bees adrift on the breeze, seeking the crimson rose. Airy, fairy, kin to the rainbow and mist, she should weave spells, in woodland dells, there with the moonlight keep tryst. Brightly, lightly into the footlight's glare; viol and song bear her along, shedding her glamor there. Leaping, keeping time to the music's flow, thus a leaf lifts, thus a flame drifts, thus does a cloud-ship go. Swaying, playing, all to the changing air; now slow and sad, now gay and glad, laughing and debonair. Dancing, prancing, still to the music's beat; snowflakes fall so, and light as snow patter the dancer's feet. Dreaming, seeming one with the shadows there, still floating on, so she is gone, drifted away on air!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

It is much easier to be critical than to be correct.

* * *

Individuals may form communities, but it is institutions alone that can create a nation.

* * *

Nature works on a method of all for each and each for all.

* * *

To be wise by rule and by experience are utterly opposite principles. So that he who is used to the one is unfit for the other.

* * *

Virtue, as a transcendent gem, is better set without much gold and ornament.

* * *

Animals are such agreeable friends—they ask no questions, they pass no criticisms.

Seven To Support

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a married man and have a family of five children, also a sickly father. I have not worked for nearly three months on account of an operation. I am now out and would like to know if some kind reader could not help me by getting me a position. The doctor said I must do light work, what it is I do not care.

OLIVER F.

Starting Print Shop

Helping Hand Editor:

There is a man of 40 who on account of physical disability, is compelled to stay home. He is contriving to earn his living by doing a little printing. Some kind readers who can understand his predicament are asked to help him in the way of supplying spare type and odds and ends to aid him to start a small printing shop, including a little paper stock, card board, etc. He could use a small printing press. He would gladly pay for the latter if a sufficient extension of time be given, as he cannot pay cash down. Also some kind reader may have a discarded typewriter.

MRS. W. V. P.

Donation Forwarded

Helping Hand Editor:

The editor thanks "Theatre Ticket" for his donation to the elderly man G. S. writes about. It is being forwarded to him.—Ed.

Wants To Make Carpet

Helping Hand Editor:

Would some of the kind readers send me some pieces to cover quilts or old rags to make carpet, as my mother is very handy at that work, or if someone has any rugs they can spare. Our house is very cold and we have just a little wood fire.

MRS. M. F.

Warm Clothes Needed

Helping Hand Editor:

Before my wife, who has been ill, and kiddies can get out in the air, they need warm clothes. I wonder if any of your readers could help my wife with a dress, coat or suit, 38 or 40; child's shoes, size 11; girl's underwear, dress or sweater for girl eight years old, and sweater and underwear for girl two. I have not worked in four months and am in debt. Can do collecting, office work, and have had store and factory experience. Will work cheap and do anything to learn something worth while. Am 26. I hope I can find something to do within 50 miles of Boston.

L. H.

Offers Boy's Shoes

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a pair of shoes for a boy, size 8½ or 9.

MRS. R.

Many thanks. Mrs. R. recently wrote us asking for just such shoes for her boys and we are sending you her address.

Needs a Stove

Helping Hand Editor:

I am in need of a stove. The one I have does not give any heat and the oven is falling apart so that I cannot bake at all. The house is very cold. I am a poor widow, 65, with three boys, one a cripple. Please help me out.

MRS. H.

Anxious For Violin

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a girl eleven years old and I have a chance to take violin lessons from a lady whose baby I am going to mind one hour a day after school. Would like to know if any kind reader has a discarded violin I could have, or, if not, would sell one real cheap. I am anxious to learn to play.

SADIE H.

Tranks For Baby Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

Kindly thank Beverly, Mass., for sending me parcel of infant's clothes. As there was no name on it, I cannot write and thank her.

MRS. L. B.

Seeking a Home

Helping Hand Editor:

Is there some man who would like to have me live in his house and take care of his children along with mine. I have four, two in school, and the baby in his third year. I have enough money to buy food and clothes for us, but cannot pay high rent, buy fuel, etc. All I would ask is a home for myself and children. I am a good housekeeper and can sew. Would go into the country.

LIFE LIKE A GAM OF SOLITAIRE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

LIFE, in many respects, resembles a game of [illegible] Its success depends quite as much upon [illegible] cards are dealt as upon the players' skill in [illegible] them down.

There is no use, very much, of being a skillful p[illegible] if you do not have the cards.

Life, at its best, is a combination of luck and [illegible]

What we call luck consists in the way events [illegible] us. These events are controlled by a power not of [illegible] It makes little difference what we call that power, [illegible] it is Deity, in some form, or the laws of the universe, [illegible] it to say it is not under our control, but we are [illegible] under its.

All sorts of devices have been suggested by which [illegible] to control those forces which are beyond him, such as [illegible] and all sorts of relations with the infinite, including [illegible] telling, but no law as yet has been discovered which [illegible] tical invariably.

It still remains that a good part of success is depe[illegible] not upon ourselves, but upon the order of events in the [illegible] in which we live.

Notwithstanding this fact the results of skill rema[illegible] dubitable. In the long run the player who believes [illegible] self, and who acts intelligently and courageously, wi[illegible]

If there be such a thing as luck it is a fickle [illegible] comes to those who believe in themselves and has a w[illegible] disappointing those who do not.

Not only does luck eventually control us and our [illegible] but it has a way of coming to the man who believes the[illegible] is in his favor. That is to say, his very attitude toward [illegible] such as to bring it to him.

Napoleon believed in his star and all other gre[illegible] who have accomplished much have believed in them[illegible] and that fortune favored them.

It is as easy to believe one thing as another and [illegible] who adopt the attitude that is favorable to fortune [illegible] find that fortune adopts the attitude that is favorable to [illegible]

Those who believe, in some way, that the unseen [illegible] are with them are usually more successful than the[illegible] believe that these forces are against them.

Perhaps all there is to it is that a belief in fortune [illegible] to steady one's hand and increase one's skill and the[illegible] fore the efforts one puts forth are thereby increased.

EXAMPLES OF EVE DAY RELATIVITY

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

THE most beautiful examples of relativity of motion—the basis of the Einstein speculation—may be watched from the window of a railroad train running through a broad landscape, bordered with distant hills or mountains. It is one of those things which everybody sees, but few see. It is the true seeing of things of this kind that give birth to science.

This sight is amusing as well as informing. When you first look out of the train window, fix your attention upon the base of the fence in the foreground.

Everything between you and the fence will appear to be rushing madly backward; i. e., in the direction opposite to the train's motion, while everything beyond the fence will appear to be hurrying forward as if trying to keep up with the train.

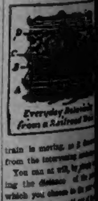
Then lift your eyes a little, and look at some point in the field on the line B-B, not far beyond the fence; now the fence itself will join the backward rush, while all the ground beyond the point at which you are looking will seem to be going along with the train, although at a losing pace, the train gaining faster on the ground the nearer the latter is to the fixed point.

You will become aware of a curious tendency of the landscape to rotate about that point.

If you fix your attention on the tree in the middle ground, instantly the apparent backward movement will extend to all the ground between you and the tree. Everything this side of the line C-C in the picture, will be going backward, while everything beyond it will be going forward with the train.

Again lift your eyes and fix them upon the two trees in the background. Then the line [illegible] the division between the [illegible] apparent motions, and the [illegible] the foreground, which [illegible] kind of pivot for the [illegible] your attention was fixed [illegible] will be swept into the backward [illegible] rent.

Finally, look at the hills [illegible] horizon, miles away. As [illegible] you do so the whole [illegible] side of the hills will [illegible] ward movement, with [illegible] speed varying [illegible] distance, while the line [illegible] sweep, ahead in the [illegible]



Everyday Relativity from a Railroad Ca[illegible]

train is moving, [illegible] from the intervening [illegible]

You can at will, by [illegible] ing the distance [illegible] which you choose to fix [illegible] tion, make the world out [illegible] dow appear to rotate around [illegible] dred different pivots [illegible]

These deceptions, [illegible] completely misled the [illegible] mind of the [illegible] corrected instinctively [illegible] lence of the [illegible] when he has not [illegible] explanation.

KEEP THE YULETIDE SPIRIT THROUGHOUT THE [illegible]

Did the days immediately preceding Christmas find [illegible] tolerant and at peace with mankind?

At times you may have wondered why you were so [illegible] and good-natured and undisturbed by petty things.

So much for a state of mind.

How much more you might get out of life if during the [illegible] between Christmases you could maintain even a small [illegible] spirit you manifested immediately preceding the great holiday[illegible]

If it is because you are harassed by thoughts of [illegible] curred during the Yuletide season that gives you a [illegible] the event is passed, you are unfortunate.

Why give so much that the result is burdensome?

It is unfair to yourself, and if known by your friends [illegible] them of the joy they experience from your gift.

A Good Excuse
Two Maniacs Fight
Tied to Their Anchor
Two Billion Hours
Current Events
—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.)

OUR EUROPEAN friends, statesmen of England, France, etc., say this country is now tied up in the reparations mess, and that we have made ourselves practically responsible for Germany's debts.

Our statesmen say no. We were only trying to get a few hundred million dollars out of the scramble.

In any case, you will probably discover that we have given Europe a chance to say, by and by: "You have not kept faith and so we shall not pay what we borrowed from you."

JOHN KUEHN and Albert Joe fought desperately with heavy mops. Before they were separated, Kuehn was killed. Keepers overpowered Joe, the winner. Both were madmen and fought in an asylum. "Oh!" you say, "Crazy, eh? That explains it."

WHAT does it explain? Were those two maniacs any more crazy or wild than the civilized nations that recently started fighting and kept at it until millions were killed?

JUST AS YOU make up your mind that prohibition is a failure, because the rich man gets what he wants, when he wants it, etc., statistics come along to make you think again.

More money in savings banks, fewer citizens in jails, some jails closed, fewer go to insane asylums. Bigger wages can't explain that. But then comes this: In New York, biggest city, crime among women has been cut down one-half since prohibition came, in spite of the city's growing size.

Bigger wages might explain some of that.

HOW MANY new crimes has prohibition added to the list, while diminishing the amount of crime among women? Father George F. Bennett, of St. Lawrence's Church in Weehawken, tells of surprising a group of bootleggers carting off a boatload of whiskey at night. First they offered him money to be silent, then a load of whiskey or champagne. Policemen were the active bootleggers.

THAT IS the cold business side of bootlegging. The next crime story comes from Sidney Island, British Columbia. Hi-jackers attack the captain and his son, alone on their whiskey laden bark. Father and son fight, are beaten down, tied together, and both tied to the ship's anchor. The anchor slowly grinds them to death, as it is lowered over the side.

TEN YEARS AGO this country smoked fifteen billion cigarettes in one year. In 1923, the number was 63 billions.

Smoking women have contributed much of the increase. Figuring a little less than two minutes to a cigarette, that means about two billion hours devoted to cigarette smoking by men and women. Add cigars and pipes, then figure for yourself how many years of time went up in smoke.

BUT FIGURE, also, that life is largely a choice of evils. Nobody knows what foolishness was avoided by the millions thoughtfully rolling their own, or walking a mile to get just the cigarette they wanted.

The only trouble about tobacco is that when you smoke you tilt your forehead upward, and in that position you can't think well. Try it.

FRENCH COMMUNISTS at Aix and elsewhere battle with French Catholics holding a parade. The Communists marched singing "The International," a revolutionary song. The Catholics sang anthems, in protest against the government's religious policy, which is anti-Catholic.

Mussolini has declared war upon the Free Masons because, among other reasons, he alleges that "They aim at destruction of religion."

Here we escape such troubles. Complete separation of church

BRANDEGEE LAUDED IN SENATE EXERCISES

Washington, Jan. 19.—Ever faithful to American ideals, loyal to country and to conviction, the superior of Frank B. Brandegee has not represented Connecticut in the Senate since the days of Trumbull and Sherman declared Senator Joseph P. McLean today in a eulogy of his late colleague.

Many years ago a physician discovered it—

SOOTHING; healing Resinol Ointment. Since then doctors have been prescribing it widely for skin and scalp troubles, because they know that its unvarying quality, its gentle medication, and the success which attends its use are sufficient to insist on Resinol.

It seldom fails to give quick relief in all itching, burning skin troubles, because its soothing properties cause it to ease the irritation while healing the disorder.

Resinol Soap is a ready aid in treating skin troubles, and is a favorite for the toilet and bath with thousands who like its cleansing, refreshing lather.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

If Your Back Hurts or Bothers You, Begin Taking Jad Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing, vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache — torpid liver — constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

BOSTONIANS RETURN TO PALESTINE

Mrs. Annie Levine and Perez Satran Leave for Native Land

Palestine has reclaimed two Boston Jews—Mrs. Annie Levine of Dorchester and Perez Satran of Boston.

As the ardent hope and fond wish of every Jew is to return to his homeland to die in rest and peace among his countrymen, many are giving vent to their desire. It is estimated that 3,000 immigrate monthly into Palestine with a waiting list of 10,000 behind it.

Mrs. Levine is sailing tomorrow. At the home of her son, Bernard, No. 625 Warren street, Roxbury, she bid good-bye and farewell to a host of friends and relatives.

The West End Jews lose one of their most active Hebrew scholars in Satran, whose home was at all hours a harbor of shelter and information for Talmudic students. For many years he was supreme in West End orthodox circles.

A farewell reception was tendered him. He will leave January 29 for Palestine.

The newly elected officers and directors of the Congregation Hamidrash Hagodol, Crawford street, Roxbury, were installed amid fitting ceremonies by Rabbi Louis Epstein of the synagogue.

The administrative executives are Louis H. Steinberg, president; S. Bernstein, vice-president; Samuel Rosenberg, secretary, and A. H. Morrison, treasurer. They will serve during the year.

The exercises were followed by a musical program and a banquet. George Alpert, assistant district attorney, was the principal speaker. Samuel Rosenberg was in charge.

It is rumored that Frederic Wingersky, former president of the Brotherhood of Temple Ohabei Shalom, Park street, Boston, may be the choice for president of the national federation.

The convention ends Wednesday.

Contributions to Keren Hayesod are once more in order. Interrupted by the half a million drive of the Federated Jewish Charities, requests for finances from this organization had to be suspended temporarily.

The purpose of Keren Hayesod is purely Zionistic. It wants to rebuild Palestine. Solicited funds in Boston should come up to the $100,000 mark. To date subscriptions for $70,000 have been collected by the various teams and captains of trade teams.

A women's committee has been formed to "clean up," financially speaking, the remains of the residential and business districts left by the workers. Judging from the manifested enthusiasm at a tea of the women workers, their follow-up campaign should bellow aloud in dollars and cents.

S. H. Waldstein, Boston, is chairman of the drive.

Abraham Cahan, editor of the New York Jewish Daily Forward, addressed a Boston audience for the first time in the Ford Hall Forum on "Are We Taking Literature Seriously Enough?"

The Jewish Anti-Tuberculosis Association will give a series of concerts and musical entertainments to the patients at the Boston Sanitoria. The first of these concerts will be given the latter part of the month, it is expected.

Mrs. B. Bunshaft and Mrs. D. Small, members of the visiting committee, are arranging the concerts.

The fortieth anniversary celebration of the First Boston Austrian-Hungarian Association will be held in Paul Revere Hall tomorrow night. Joseph White, chairman, is in charge.

A banquet, entertainment and dance will be given to enable the young sons and daughters of the members who have been invited to enjoy themselves.

Mrs. Mary Northend addressed the Council of Jewish Women in the vestry of Temple Israel, Commonwealth avenue, today, on "The Home One Dreams Of."

CLINTON A. C. HOLDS 4th ANNUAL DANCE TONIGHT

The fourth annual dance of the Clinton A. C. of Roxbury will be held tonight at Intercolonial Hall, No. 214 Dudley street, Roxbury. Among the features will be an exhibition by Tenney and Allen of Bowery and Apache dancing. The committee in charge is: J. E. Connors, chairman; T. L. Lynch, J. B. Zamagni, F. McLean, F. Murphy and J. Glynn, assisted by the Misses W. Monahan, C. Connors, N. Strong, E. Morrison, L. Domo and M. Connors.

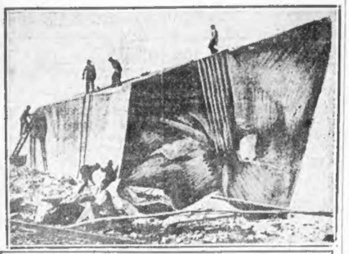
If This Were Gold

It Would Upset the World's Finance



This block of granite is said to be the biggest stone ever quarried.

This great stone, forty feet high, contains 100,000 cubic feet of solid granite. Taken from Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., it is said to be the largest solid rock ever quarried. It isn't the LONGEST, of course. Stones much longer had been quarried thousands of years ago in Egypt. And that Egyptian work is all the more marvelous considering that they lack our modern cutting machinery, driven by electricity or compressed air, and all our modern scientific methods.

An interesting thought in connection with this huge rock is this: SUPPOSE THIS ROCK WERE MADE OF SOLID GOLD, INSTEAD OF SOLID GRANITE?

Do you realize what a change that would make in the business, in the money matters and in the credits of the world?

A hundred thousand cubic feet of gold would upset all the bankers and all the gold currencies on earth. Unless some great nation possessed the big lump of gold and promised not to issue it as money, the world's values would be upset.

A gold dollar would be worth only a fraction of its present value. You would have learned political economists suggesting that the only thing to do would be to sink this lump of gold at the bottom of the ocean, and thus restore money values to their natural condition.

If men ever carry out their plan and dig a hole thirty miles deep or more down into the earth, it is just possible that they might find gold in such quantities as this. Gold tends to go downward, it is heavier than a majority of the other metals, much heavier than iron, silver, copper.

If you had a lump of gold as big as this, you could buy out Henry Ford—if he would sell, which he wouldn't.

With that much gold you could go to Monte Carlo and make a fool of yourself, gambling steadily, betting "the limit" all the rest of your life. If you lost every bet, at the end of the year you would not have begun to use up your income.

Or if you happened to have brains, you could use this lump of gold, assuming that its money value wouldn't be destroyed by the mere fact of its discovery, to irrigate deserts in the West, harness up the power of the Colorado River, which the richest nation on earth hasn't the brains or the will to harness.

You could wipe out slums in big cities, build and endow reasonable priced apartments for the millions that are now at the mercy of the highest price obtainable by the lowest kind of a landlord.

There is great power in gold, but the power is there only because human beings are willing that it should be there.

They call gold their money, therefore, it will BUY anything and persuade men to do anything. Once hides of animals were used as money. The savages used shells for money, the Indians used their wampum—beads strung together. Many elements are more rare than gold.

Also, if you owned this gigantic lump of gold, and you found yourself alone on a desert island with no food or water, you would gladly exchange the whole lump for one quart of water, and one tenderloin steak. Therefore everything is comparative. Also, if the old descriptions of hell are true, and if you found yourself down there with this lump of gold—it would be soon melted, of course—you would give it too gladly for one single drop of water.

The thing to do is not to worry about gold, but to work, try to do something worth while, and be content with enough of the gold to keep you from being any other man's slave, and compelled to obey his orders.

Useful work and independence. Those are what we need. Not unnecessary gold to worry or make fools of us.

Which Streets for Parades?

Merchants Want No More of Them Down-Town

Boston merchants wisely select a season when there is no big parade on the program as a good time to discuss barring all future parades from down-town streets.

"When a parade is held on these narrow down-town streets," the business men say, "traffic in other parts of the city becomes more or less demoralized, the public is greatly inconvenienced and business is paralyzed before, during and after the marching.

"This means large losses to business men as well as to employes who work on commission."

The Retail Trade Division, asking the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to take action, disavows opposition to parades as such. It suggests that they be held on wide streets, "like Commonwealth Avenue."

The subject has been brought into the open and this is the time to come to an agreement.

Most of us like parades. None of us would wilfully injure the business establishments which employ thousands and serve tens of thousands.

SHALL parades be barred from down-town streets?
The subject is open for discussion.
Let discussion be followed by action.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

BY HELEN ROWLAND

HEAR now, the Love Song of a Bride, my Daughter, which she chanteth in her heart.

Oh, be my Friend, Beloved. For, surely, in the trials and problems of married life, if EVER, doth a woman need a FRIEND!

Helen Rowland

I pray thee, do not set me upon a pedestal and endow me with all the virtues of a saint—and then expect me to live UP to them. For, lo, pedestals are exceedingly slippery; and it is inspiring to be worshipped blindly, but it is more comforting to be understood.

And to keep a man "blinded" forever is a life-work!

Be my Friend Beloved! Cover me not with illusions, nor invest me with all the charms of Circe and the Lorelei. For, I am no "siren"! And infatuation, like wind, is exhilarating for the moment—but leaveth always the headache and the heartache.

Be my Friend, Beloved! Cherish me not as a fragile flower, neither as a piece of bric-a-brac.

For chivalry is beautiful, but comradeship is more satisfying. Take me by the hand and let us walk together, play together, work together, climb together to the Summit of Life; and then, together, limp down the hill, still keeping step, through the sunset of the years.

Be my Friend, Beloved! Understand me—do not coddle me, as thou wouldst a child and a half-wit. Respect me, even as I respect thee.

For this is the foundation-rock of friendship!

Love me for those few charms, and virtues, and talents which I possess—but do not ask me to grow WINGS.

Help me to live up to my best and highest—but do not ask me to live up to Impossible Ideal!

For, marriage may be a refinery—but it is not a reformatory!

Be my Friend, Beloved—not my worshipper, my adorer, my guardian, my judge, my critic, my overseer, my slave nor my ruler!

Be my Friend, Beloved!

This is all I ask—but it is no LITTLE thing.

SALAH!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHIRLING, twirling, over the stage she goes, light as the bees adrift on the breeze, seeking the crimson rose. Airy, fairy, kin to the rainbow and mist, she should weave spells, in woodland dells, there with the moonlight keep tryst. Brightly, lightly into the footlight's glare; viol and song bear her along, shedding her glamor there. Leaping, keeping time to the music's flow, thus a leaf lifts, thus a flame drifts, thus does a cloud-ship go. Swaying, playing, all to the changing air; now slow and sad, now gay and glad, laughing and debonair. Dancing, prancing, still to the music's beat; snowflakes fall so, and light as snow patter the dancer's feet. Dreaming, seeming one with the shadows there, still floating on, so she is gone, drifted away on air!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

It is much easier to be critical than to be correct.

* * *

Individuals may form communities, but it is institutions alone that can create a nation.

* * *

Nature works on a method of all for each and each for all.

* * *

To be wise by rule and by experience are utterly opposite principles. So that he who is used to the one is unfit for the other.

* * *

Virtue, as a transcendant gem, is better set without much gold and ornament.

* * *

Animals are such agreeable friends—they ask no questions, they pass no criticisms.

Seven To Support

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a married man and have a family of five children, also a sickly father. I have not worked for nearly three months on account of an operation. I am now out and would like to know if some kind reader could not help me by getting me a position. The doctor said I must do light work, what it is I do not care.

OLIVER F.

Starting Print Shop

Helping Hand Editor:

There is a man of 40 who on account of physical disability, is compelled to stay home. He is contriving to earn his living by doing a little printing. Some kind readers who can understand his predicament are asked to help him in the way of supplying spare type and odds and ends to aid him to start a small printing shop, including a little paper stock, card board, etc. He could use a small printing press. He would gladly pay for the latter if a sufficient extension of time be given, as he cannot pay cash down. Also some kind reader may have a discarded typewriter.

MRS. W. V. P.

Donation Forwarded

Helping Hand Editor:

The editor thanks "Theatre Ticket" for his donation to the elderly man G. S. writes about. It is being forwarded to him.—Ed.

Wants To Make Carpet

Helping Hand Editor:

Would some of the kind readers send me some pieces to cover quilts or old rags to make carpet, as my mother is very handy at that work, or if someone has any rugs they can spare. Our house is very cold and we have just a little wood fire. MRS. M. F.

Warm Clothes Needed

Helping Hand Editor:

Before my wife, who has been ill, and kiddies can get out in the air, they need warm clothes. I wonder if any of your readers could help my wife with a dress, coat or suit, 38 or 40; child's shoes, size 11; girl's underwear, dress or sweater for girl eight years old, and sweater and underwear for girl two. I have not worked in four months and am in debt. Can do collecting, office work, and have had store and factory experience. Will work cheap and do anything to learn something worth while. Am 26. I hope I can find something to do within 50 miles of Boston.

L. H.

Offers Boy's Shoes

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a pair of shoes for a boy, size 8½ or 9. MRS. R.

Many thanks. Mrs. S. recently wrote us asking for just such shoes for her boys and we are sending you her address.

Needs a Stove

Helping Hand Editor:

I am in need of a stove. The one I have does not give any heat and the oven is falling apart so that I cannot bake at all. The house is very cold. I am a poor widow, 65, with three boys, one a cripple. Please help me out.

MRS. H.

Anxious For Violin

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a girl eleven years old and I have a chance to take violin lessons from a lady whose baby I am going to mind one hour a day after school. Would like to know if any kind reader has a discarded violin I could have, or, if not, would sell one real cheap. I am anxious to learn to play. SADIE H.

Tranks For Baby Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

Kindly thank Beverly, Mass., for sending me parcel of infant's clothes. As there was no name on it, I cannot write and thank her.

MRS. L. B.

Seeking a Home

Helping Hand Editor:

Is there some map who would like to have me live in his house and take care of his children along with mine. I have four, two in school, and the baby in his third year. I have enough money to buy food and clothes for us, but cannot pay high rent, buy fuel, etc. All I would ask is a home for myself and children. I am a good housekeeper and can sew. Would go into the country. S. P. E.

LIFE LIKE A GAME OF SOLITAIRE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

LIFE, in many respects, resembles a game of solitaire. Its success depends quite as much upon how the cards are dealt as upon the players' skill in setting them down.

There is no use, very much, of being a skillful performer if you do not have the cards.

Life, at its best, is a combination of luck and skill.

What we call luck consists in the way events come to us. These events are controlled by a power not of ourselves. It makes little difference what we call that power, whether it is Deity, in some form, or the laws of the universe. Suffice it to say it is not under our control, but we are, perhaps, under its.

All sorts of devices have been suggested by which man is to control those forces which are beyond him, such as prayer and all sorts of relations with the infinite, including fortune telling, but no law as yet has been discovered which is practical invariably.

It still remains that a good part of success is dependable not upon ourselves, but upon the order of events in the world in which we live.

Notwithstanding this fact the results of skill remain indubitable. In the long run the player who believes in himself, and who acts intelligently and courageously, will win.

If there be such a thing as luck it is a fickle jade and comes to those who believe in themselves and has a way of disappointing those who do not.

Not only does luck eventually control us and our doings, but it has a way of coming to the man who believes that luck is in his favor. That is to say, his very attitude toward it is such as to bring it to him.

Napoleon believed in his star and all other great men who have accomplished much have believed in themselves and that fortune favored them.

It is as easy to believe one thing as another and those who adopt the atttitude that is favorable to fortune usually find that fortune adopts the attitude that is favorable to them.

Those who believe, in some way, that the unseen forces are with them are usually more successful than those who believe that these forces are against them.

Perhaps all there is to it is that a belief in fortune is apt to steady one's hand and increase one's skill and that therefore the efforts one puts forth are thereby increased.

EXAMPLES OF EVERY DAY RELATIVITY

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

THE most beautiful examples of relativity of motion—the basis of the Einstein speculation—may be watched from the window of a railroad train running through a broad landscape, bordered with distant hills or mountains. It is one of those things which everybody sees, but few see. It is the true seeing of things of this kind that give birth to science.

This sight is amusing as well as informing. When you first look out of the train window, fix your attention upon the base of the fence in the foreground.

Everything between you and the fence will appear to be rushing madly backward; i. e., in the direction opposite to the train's motion, while everything beyond the fence will appear to be hurrying forward as if trying to keep up with the train.

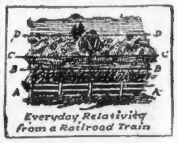
Then lift your eyes a little, and look at some point in the field on the line B-B, not far beyond the fence; now the fence itself will join the backward rush, while all the ground beyond the point at which you are looking will seem to be going along with the train, although at a losing pace, the train gaining faster on the ground the nearer the latter is to the fixed point.

You will become aware of a curious tendency of the landscape to rotate about that point.

If you fix your attention on the tree in the middle ground, instantly the apparent backward movement will extend to all the ground between you and the tree. Everything this side of the line C-C in the picture, will be going backward, while everything beyond it will be going forward with the train.

Again lift your eyes and fix them upon the two trees in the background. Then the line D-D ma the division between the opposit apparent motions, and the tree in the foreground, which served as a kind of pivot for the motion when your attention was fixed upon it, will be swept into the backward current.

Finally, look at the hills on the horizon, miles away. As soon as you do so the whole landscape this side of the hills will join the backward movement, with an apparent speed varying inversely with the distance, while the line of hills will sweep, ahead in the direction the train is moving, as it disconnected from the intervening landscape.



Everyday Relativity from a Railroad Train

You can at will, by simply changing the distance of the point on which you choose to fix your attention, make the world out of the window appear to rotate around a hundred different pivots in succession.

These deceptions, which would completely mislead the uneducated mind of the inexperienced child, are corrected instinctively by the experience of the grown person, even when he has not thought out their explanation.

But they teach us the lesson that we ought never to accept mere appearance as facts, no matter how real the appearances may seem to a single, unaided sense, such as sight.

Seeing is not believing for the scientific mind. If you do not mingle thought with sight, hearing and the few other sense functions that we possess, you will go through the world with many serious slips.

ONCE-OVERS

KEEP THE YULETIDE SPIRIT THROUGHOUT THE YEAR

Did the days immediately preceding Christmas find you joyous, tolerant and at peace with mankind?

At times you may have wondered why you were so light-hearted and good-natured and undisturbed by petty things.

So much for a state of mind.

How much more you might get out of life if during the months between Christmases you could maintain even a small portion of the spirit you manifested immediately preceding the great holiday.

If it is because you are harassed by thoughts of indebtedness incurred during the Yuletide season that gives you a drab outlook after the event is passed, you are unfortunate.

Why give so much that the result is burdensome?

It is unfair to yourself, and if known by your friends would rob them of the joy they experience from your gift.

If you must spend more than you should in order to keep a certain friend, you would be better off without that friend.

Your real friends love you more than any gift you could give.
